Mr. Wm. Pfunder, Chemist and Druggist, Portland. Third edition cold weather again. Having recently suffered from a severe attack of the prevailing epidemic La Grippe which brought me down almost to typhoid fever, I think it my duty of my own free will to bear testimony to the efficacy of your OREGON BLOOD PURIFIER and COUGH MEDICINE, for I certainly owe my recovery to them. I had long known the virtues of your Oregon Blood Purifier by practical experience and in this case of the Influenza I find it equally efficacious. No medicine will cure all diseases, but for putting the human system in a healthy condition I know none so good as your Blood Purifier. In several cases of the epidemic I recommended both these compounds to several friends and they all received the same benefit from them as myself, and quite as instantaneously. In hopes that many more may be similarly benefited, I gladly and gratefully give you this certificate. Yours very truly

LIFE'S HISTORY;

Its Smiles and Tears. Such is the course of life, made up of sunshine and gloom, gladness and sorrow, riches and poverty, health and disease. We may dispel the gloom, banish the sorrow and gain riches, but sickness will overtake us, sooner or later. Yet, happily, that enemy can be vanquished, pains and aches can be relieved, there is a balm for every wound, and science has placed it within the reach of all. There is no discovery that has proven so great a blessing as Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills. In malarial regions, where Fever and Ague, Bilious Diseases and ailments incident to a deranged liver prevail, they have proven an inestimable boon, as a hundred thousand living witnesses testify.

THE DOUBLE-ENTRY BALLOT BOX

Roar of British Artillery at Esquimalt Makes the Olympic Mountains Tremble—New Washington Land Districts.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—[OREGONIAN office, corner Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue.]—The democratic programme to test the constitutionality of the transaction of any business by the house of representatives without a quorum voting has been substantially agreed upon. It is proposed that John O. Pendleton who was unseated by a vote less than a quorum, shall make a claim upon the treasury for the salary due him as a member of the house of representatives from the First congressional district of West Virginia. Upon the disallowing of this claim by the accounting officers he will proceed to bring suit in the court of claims, and in case of an adverse decision will take it up to the supreme court of the United States, where a motion will be made to advance the case as one affecting great public interests. In case the hearing in either the court of claims or the supreme court of the United States should be very much retarded, another plan has been suggested. It is to have Pendleton bring a mandamus suit to compel the payment of his salary on the ground that he is still a member of congress, as he could not be unseated by less than a constitutional majority and that the auditing and payment of his salary is a purely ministerial act.

Spinelle Braden, of Helena, has been in Washington for several days. He is a democrat, in charge of the assay office at Helena. L. H. Horsfield has also been here, and it is said to be the ambition of the latter to have Braden removed, on account of some trouble in the family relations of the two men. An attempt was made to interest Representative Carter in the scheme, and he was importuned to demand Braden's removal. What was done in the case can not be learned, but it was generally understood that the president would not remove a man because he was a democrat and had been horsewhipped by a woman. Carter having failed to act, the matter still remains in statu quo. Young Russell Harrison was appealed to, and he wrote a letter to Braden which has been published, stating that: "Me and father would be much relieved if you would tender your resignation." Braden could not be moved even by the appeal of Russell B., and intends to compel the administration to remove him at the request of the Montana republicans or serve out his term.

Senator Allen to-day presented a unique memorial from Port Townsend, Wash., on the question of defenses for Puget sound. It represents that there is no protection of the commercial interests of that section of the country, and when British ships came within hailing distance on a recent occasion there was not even a piece of ordnance with which to answer the salute from her majesty's guns. The memorial dwells on the fact that England has established headquarters for its Northern Pacific squadron at Esquimalt, B. C., in a position so near to Port Townsend that its works can be seen from Point Wilson, and the guns of the vessels as they indulge in target practice can be heard at Port Townsend, where the concussion jars the houses to a considerable extent. For these reasons the request is made that works of defense be located at Point Wilson, Admiralty Head and Marrowstone point, as recommended by General Miles in his late report.

Senator Squire to-day presented a memorial from the board of trustees of the Bellingham Bay Chamber of Commerce, asking for the improvement of Swinomish channel, in the state of Washington.

The house committee on pensions to-day decided to report favorably Mr Hermann's bill granting a pension to Rev. R. C. Martin, of Clackamas county, Or. Martin was a member of the Larrilis battalion of the Missouri Volunteers in the Mexican war, but after his enlistment the batallion was directed to protect immigrants going to California and Oregon, and when he applied for a pension [illegible] the Mexican pension act was refused on [illegible] he did not participate in [illegible] His pension will date from March, [illegible] per month.

The resolution introduced by Senator Mitchell to-day directing the committee on foreign relations to report as to the advisability of advancing the American legation at the empire of Turkey to the grade of a second class mission, is intended for the benefit of Minister Hirsch, who was appointed from Oregon. The grade is now third class, and the salary is $[illegible] advanced to the second class the salary [illegible] made $1[illegible],000.

In the house to-day McComas introduced a bill, which was referred, to regulate the place, time and manner of holding elections for representatives in congress. It provides that in each state entitled to more than one representative in the Fifty-third and subsequent congresses such representatives shall be elected by districts which have as nearly as practicable an equal number of inhabitants so that the most populous districts shall not have more than 15,000 inhabitants in excess of the least populous districts. Districts shall be composed of territory contiguous, adjacent and compact. The bill further prevents the redistricting of any state except on the occasion of the federal census and prohibits such redistricting for the election of members of the Fifty-second congress.

In reply to a question from the Home Market Club, of Boston, Secretary Rusk has written a letter in which he says there is nothing in the soil and climate of this country to prevent the production of every class of wool remuneratively and in commercial quantities. The production of carpet wools, he says, has not kept pace with the remarkably rapid growth of carpet manufacture in this country because that class of wool has been discriminated against in the tariff, with the result of a large importation of foreign carpet wools. The law is so framed also as to admit at the carpet wool rate many grades of finer wool, thus operating against home production of those classes of wool also.

As it is apparent now that Mr Hermann is not very enthusiastic over Senator Mitchell's bill for a boat railway at The Dalles, there would seem to be little hope of getting the measure through congress. Mr Hermann takes the ground that the demand for such a large sum—over three millions—will of necessity cut down the amount allowed Oregon in the general river and harbor bill. Senator Mitchell holds that it need not be made a part of the general bill, but can be made as a separate measure. The senator says there is no necessity of the boat railway bill going before the river and harbor committee, but may be referred to the committee on railroads and canals. Mr Hermann declares that if Oregon gets a million and a half for rivers and harbors it will be impossible to secure more money for the boat railway. Mitchell says it is necessary first to get it through the senate, but if it does get through he will expect that Mr Hermann will do all he can to get it through the house.

The differences of opinion as to whether the act which admitted the four states of Washington, Montana and the Dakotas repealed the homestead pre-emption law has led to the introduction of a bill which will, if it becomes a law, put an end to all questions which might arise under different legal rulings. The point was raised some time ago that this act repealed the homestead law by the mistaken use of a word, using "act" when "section" was intended. Senator Davis has introduced a bill which declares, in so many words, that all pre-emptions made after the passage of the enabling act, shall be declared valid and that patents shall be issued without regard to the terms of the act in question, so far as the four new states are concerned.

Senator Mitchell to-day introduced a resolution calling upon the committee on finance who are inquiring into the tariff to investigate and if practicable prepare a provision for a duty on hops. The senator says that the states of Oregon and Washington are the greatest hop-producing countries in the world, and he wants the product protected.

The chairman of the committee on public lands has requested Mr Hermann to appear before the committee on Wednesday and argue upon his bill for forfeiture of the Northern Pacific land grant from Wallula to Portland.

In the senate to-day Squire introduced a bill for the relief of John S. Hill and appropriating $4000 for supplies furnished the Tulalip reservation; also a bill for the relief of Peter Runquist, of Steilacoom, for a lost homestead.

Allen introduced a bill for moving the sandbar between the mouth of the Willamette and Vancouver and appropriating $90,000 therefor.

A favorable report has been ordered by the house committee on public lands, on the senate bill to establish two additional land districts in Washington.

The committee on public buildings and grounds to-day reported favorably the bill for the construction of a public building at Portland, Or., appropriating $400,000.

IN THE SENATE.

Injunction on the Alaska Lease—Spooner Opposes the Blair Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—In the senate Voorhees offered a preamble and concurrent resolution reciting that in the recent lease of the fur seal islands of Alaska to the North American Commercial Company certain provisions of the law were not complied with and directing the secretary of the treasury to furnish to the senate complete copies of all bids for the lease, with all the accompanying papers, all the testimony, memoranda, arguments, letters, and correspondence with the bidders and that the secretary refrain from executing or delivering the lease to the North American Commercial Company until the subject be inquired into by the senate. He asked to have the resolution referred to the finance committee as that committee meets to-morrow. It was so ordered.

The bill fixing the salaries of judges of the United States district courts at $5000 per annum was taken up and after discussion passed—33 to 13.

The senate then resumed consideration of the Blair educational bill and was addressed by Spooner in opposition to the bill. He had voted once in favor of the bill, but not without some misgiving as to its policy. When it came again before the senate he had felt constrained to vote against it, and now, as it was once more pending for action, he was impelled to vote against it and desired to state his reasons for doing so. He agreed with the senator from New Hampshire as to the necessity of education among the masses and could not withhold the tribute of his respect and admiration for the superb industry, courage, ability and constancy with which that senator had pressed the subject on the consideration of the senate and the country. Referring to the claim that the republican party was pledged to support the bill, he read an extract from the republican national platform and denied that it contained a committal of the party to the bill. It could hardly with justice be said to be a party measure, and he submitted that no proposition of the kind ought to be, or to become, a party measure.

He agreed that it was for the state, not for the federal government, to declare what the school system of a state should be. He asserted his belief that since the bill was introduced in 1880 there had come over the country a great change of feeling as to its expediency. One strong evidence of that was the attitude of the newspaper press of the country during the discussion. In the Northwest several leading republican papers bitterly opposed the measure. Several Southern states were opposed to it through their senators. The leading newspapers of the South were no longer in favor of it. Spooner went on to speak in terms of praise of the provisions for common school education in the Southern states, and said the people of those states had not only been doing well in the education of white children, but had been doing well in the education of colored children.

He had seen, he said, no stronger condemnation of the measure than the argument of the president in his annual message, and which the senator from New Hampshire considered as an argument in its favor. The president had said "Such aid should be, as it has always been suggested by some exceptional conditions." Where, Mr Spooner asked, were the exceptional conditions which justified the appropriation of money for school purposes to Kansas, to Wisconsin, to New York, to California, to Illinois or to Iowa. If congress was to offer to appropriate $6,000,000 for school purposes in New York, it would be laughed at. He believed that with a people, as with individuals, self help was the best help. He believed that the tendency of the day was too much for paternalism in the government, and the policy of the bill, if entered upon, would never end. All things considered, the step was a dangerous one, unless it was a necessary step, and he denied that it was a necessary step.

After an executive session the senate adjourned.

COLLECTOR WARMOTH CONFIRMED.

The senate spent most of its time in executive session to-day over the nomination of Governor Warmoth to be collector of the port of New Orleans. The vote on confirmation stood Yeas 30, nays 14. Warmoth received the votes of all the republican senators present except those of Sherman, Farwell and Wilson, of Iowa. Seven democrats also voted for confirmation.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

Sunday Not the Sabbath—The Double-Action Ballot-Box.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—In the house, O'Donnell, of Michigan, at the request of the Seventh Day Adventists of the United States, presented a petition bearing 253,000 names, protesting against the passage of any bill in regard to the observance of the Sabbath, referred.

The joint resolution was passed authorizing the appointment of thirty additional medical examiners for the pension bureau.

Perkins moved to suspend the rules and put upon its passage the senate bill for organization of the territory of Oklahoma with the house substitute therefor. The motion was lost.

Houk called up the contested election case of Featherstone vs. Cate. Outhwaite, in advocating the case of the contestee, exhibited what is known as the double-action ballot box, which, the republicans assert, was used in thirty-one precincts, and which enables precinct judges to cast aside the vote of any person they may see fit. He showed the manipulation by which such judges could deceive the voter and lead him to believe his ballot had been properly deposited.

Crisp of Georgia quoted from the returns of the precincts in which it is alleged the boxes were used, in order to show that the vote for Featherstone far exceeded that for Cate, and he further asserted that there was not a particle of evidence in the case to show that such a box was used at the election. The ballot box had been brought into the case by the attorney for the contestant, but nobody had told where it had come from. Pending further debate the house adjourned.

SILVER COINAGE FOR CHINA.

Unwieldy Bars of Bullion to Be Superseded by Stamped Metal.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Dispatches from Pekin, China, announce that Viceroy Li Hung Chang has formulated a project which will mark a new era in the Chinese commercial world. He has decided to establish a system of silver coinage, which shall be uniform throughout the empire. The project is favorably viewed by Prime Minister Prince Chun, and has been submitted to the emperor by a memorial, it being urged by the viceroy, prime minister and most of the influential and progressive men. A reporter who called at the Chinese legation to inquire about the matter was informed by Ho Shen Chee, who is interpreter, that this question has long been under consideration, and was the pet scheme of Li Hung Chang. He continued:

Heretofore we have had only copper currency, ranging in value from a mill to about a cent. The government never issued paper currency, this privilege being entirely in the hands of private banking houses. Of gold and silver coin of our own we had none, but gold leaf and bars of gold, as well as lumps of silver, have been in use as a measure of value, and when a merchant or trader desired money he could deposit them with private banking houses as collateral and get notes of the banking house to use in business. At the seaports the English shilling, the Mexican dollar and Japanese yen came into general use, and this, more than anything else, suggested the advisability of having a silver currency of our own. I think the intention is to coin silver up to the value of one dollar, and the government also intends to grant charters to certain banking houses, empowering them to issue paper currency, something on the order of your national bank system. It will greatly simplify business transactions and will be an aid to commerce.

Fire in Spokane Falls Does $50,000 Damage—Alleged Murderers of Enoch Crosby On Trial in Tacoma.

MCMINNVILLE, March 3.—[Special Telegram.]—In spite of the cold, drizzling rain there are many people present to-day from different parts of the county to attend the preliminary examination of William Scott, now in jail here charged with the murder of his wife Mrs. N. L. Scott, near Wheatland, on Sunday morning, February 16. The large courtroom was filled before the prisoner was brought in, many ladies being present.

At 1:20 the prisoner was led in, wearing the same stolid, sad face as when interviewed in the jail. Justice Harding called a list of witnesses for the state. Witnesses on both sides were ordered excluded from the courtroom during the examination.

W. Y. Martin was the first witness called. He testified: "I reside one mile from the Scott homestead; saw Scott riding toward my house Sunday morning at 7:30 o'clock, met him about 100 yards from my house. Scott said: 'Come to my house, quick, Mr Martin, my wife has killed herself.' He said she had been complaining of her head, and had said that if she had a knife she would cut the pain out. I talked with Scott as we went back to his residence. He complained of and wept over his many troubles, and explained how his wife was found dying on the porch after he had heard two shots while attending the stock at the barn. He said that he supposed his wife must be dead by this time, as she was groaning when he left."

Witness described Scott's premises and the position in which he found the body of the murdered woman. The state's attorney here exhibited a diagram of the premises, whereon the witness pointed out the various points relating to the tragedy. He had not seen the plat before, but thought any man might recognize the plat as a correct diagram of the premises where the murder was committed. He found the body lying on the porch. Life was extinct. He saw the wound in the forehead. The blood was dark and perfectly dry on the face, but that which was running from the wound was bright and seemed to be fresh. He did not see the wound in the back, as the body was lying on the right side, with the back not more than one foot from the wall. The pillows lying on the floor had been powder burned. A gun and mopstick were lying on the bed. "I saw blood at the foot of the bed and at the kitchen door, saw tracks in the blood, about a No 6 boot or shoe, asked Scott if he had seen any tracks about the premises, and he said he had not. I found tracks going to the water closet and return, about a No 8 boot." Prisoner told witness that he thought he had seen a man running through the orchard. He told Scott that "he would go to Marion Townsend's and send for a coroner." Scott said he would go to A. C. Townsend's, for he could not bear to be there with the murdered woman alone. Witness described in detail the events of the day until the coroner arrived.

On cross-examination, witness testified: "The first thing I did when arriving at Scott's was to examine the body to see if she was living, did not touch the body, the body was taken up about 2 o'clock Sunday by the coroner, I was in the house but few minutes until I went out and found the tracks along the board walk in the short grass. I was on intimate terms with Scott, we frequently did neighboring favors for each other." He again told of the finding of the body and the pools of blood, the condition of the bed, and many other things that have recently been published in THE OREGONIAN.

The wife of witness cleaned up the blood Sunday afternoon, while the first coroner's inquest was being held.

When this witness had been on the stand about two hours the audience became restless, as the attorneys required him to go over the testimony in great detail. Once or twice during the cross-examination the prisoner smiled at a part of the testimony.

Coroner E. B. Fellows was the next witness called. His testimony was about the same as the previous witness in regard to the premises where the murder was committed, detailing again the blood pools and the position of the body. He had delivered the gun, mop-stick, clothing of deceased, pillows, sheets, quilts, scraps of paper, etc., over to the sheriff.

Dr Calbreath testified that he went with the coroner to hold the first inquest. The face of the corpse was black from a powder burn. He discovered a wound in the back. The clothing was powder burned, and there were powder specks around the wound.

Sheriff Harris exhibited all of the articles turned over to him by the coroner, all of which were closely inspected by the attorneys for the defense.

The sheriff showed the blood stained clothing of the prisoner, and held up before the horrified audience the blood red, yet damp and nearly dripping clothing of the murdered woman. The prisoner turned ghastly pale at the sight.

THE MURDER OF CROSBY.

Tramps on Trial at Tacoma Evidently Knew Something About It.

TACOMA, March 3.—[Special Telegram.]—In the Crosby murder trial to-day the most important testimony given was that of Sheriff Price, and related to a confession made by George Stowe, one of the suspects, to him and Prosecuting Attorney Campbell, during Stowe's confinement in the county jail. In the confession Stowe states that he first met Hoyt at the St. Charles hotel on the night of the murder and soon after their meeting they proceeded up C street. When near Seventh street they met Crosby, and Hoyt immediately cried "There's the s—— of a b——," and fired at Crosby. As soon as Stowe saw Crosby fall he immediately jumped into the gulch and ran down the railroad track and finally escaped to Centralia. Hoyt ran south toward the new addition. Sheriff Price stated that Stowe did not say why Crosby was shot by Hoyt. It was evidently not for the purpose of robbery.

J. M. Wardell, a constable at Winlock, testified that upon being informed that a murder had been committed at Tacoma, he commenced to look for the murderers. Soon afterwards Stowe arrived in Centralia, and about noon that day he arrested him. When the constable put his hand on Stowe's shoulder the suspect remarked: "You don't want me for the murder of young Crosby, do you?" Stowe was then locked up in Winlock jail. Hoyt was tracked to Portland by Wardell and arrested.

MURDER IN UNION COUNTY.

A Drunken Logger Kills an Employe, Whom He Mistook for Another.

LA GRANDE, March 3.—[Special Telegram.]—Ed Schaffer was killed by C. E. Arnold at Hilgard last Saturday evening. It seems that Arnold did not intend to kill Schaffer but was after a man named Cobb, and there is a woman in the case. Arnold has a contract to put in logs for the Grand Ronde Lumber Company, and his camp is situated on the Grand Ronde river, about six miles above Hilgard. At the camp the house in which he lives is made of logs and has a partition in the center, and Arnold and his cook, a woman named Ward, lived in one end of the house while the other end was occupied by Schaffer and others in the employ of Arnold. About 100 yards distant is located another house, in which some others in Arnold's employ were stopping.

Arnold came to La Grande Saturday and returned home drunk. He arrived home late and he and the woman had some dispute, when Cobb was called in to decide the matter, each agreeing to abide by the decision. Cobb took sides with the woman, and that so incensed Arnold as to cause a quarrel, which developed into a regular knock down, and Arnold was pretty well used up. Cobb then ran away. Arnold believed Cobb to be secreted in the other part of the house, so cupied by Schaffer and others He went to the door and demanded admission which was denied

He then went to the house occupied by the other employes and returned with a knife in his hand and fired upon the door when a scuffle ensued and Arnold came out of it with a cut on his hand and a bruise on the head as if made by some blunt instrument like a hammer and Schaffer with a stab in the breast, from which he died in about thirty minutes. Schaffer made no statement before he died Arnold claims to have acted in self defense and that Schaffer attacked him but there seems to have been no witnesses and the truth is unknown

Arnold was taken in charge by those close at hand, and held until the arrival of Sheriff Hamilton An inquest was held by an acting coroner and the verdict rendered that the deceased came to his death from a wound inflicted by Arnold The defendant was then brought to La Grande where he is now held for preliminary examination to-morrow

THE THIEVES ARE FROM PORTLAND.

They Rob Tacoma Residences and Are Safe From Molestation Here.

TACOMA March 3.—[Special Telegram.]—No arrests have yet been made in connection with the recent robberies of private residences of this city Chief Chesney believes that the depredations were perpetrated by an organized band of thieves who make their headquarters at Portland He has positive proof that many stolen articles have been shipped from here to Portland but has not been able to trace them in that city The chief claims that no provision is made by the city or state for employing officials to run these thieves down at Portland, and all he can do is to put the matter in the hands of the police of that city, who pay little attention to outside cases

SEATTLE TENTS TORN DOWN.

Novel Eviction of Merchants to Make Room for Streets

SEATTLE March 3.—[Special Telegram.]—Considerable excitement was caused in this city to-day by the street commissioner acting under instructions from the city council proceeding to clear condemned property on the corner of Yesler avenue and South Third street of tents to make room for street improvements Over a month ago the city council ordered that on the 1st of March all tents on property condemned by the city for the purpose of widening and straightening South Third street should be removed, and notices were served on the dwellers to this effect. But despite this fact, W V Rinehart collected rents of his tenants up to March 21, assuring them as they claim that they would not be molested until that time It is claimed by those doing business on disputed property that inasmuch as the land has not yet been paid for by the city the council has no right to order the removal of the tents. On the other hand, the council claims that tent permits are revokable at any time the council may order even though men doing business in the tents had owned the land.

The land in question takes in every tent on the west side of Third street, between Washington street and Yesler avenue and on the south side of Yesler avenue down to the center of the block. At noon Street Commissioner Alexander set a large crew of men at work tearing up the sidewalks and preparing to remove the tents Then and not till then did those doing business on the corner commence to remove their goods from the tents. Hardly would a load of goods be carried from a tent than workmen would tear the tent down after them, while hundreds of people blocked the streets all eager to watch the novel eviction scene It was confidently expected that a fight would be made, but the tent dwellers are submitting to the inevitable with the best possible grace.

THE PUPILS WENT HUNGRY.

Gross Mismanagement of Spokane College by the President.

SPOKANE FALLS March 3—[Special Telegram.]—For some time a sensation has been brewing in Spokane college, one of the leading educational institutions in the state, with an attendance of about 200 pupils The board of trustees have called for the resignation of the president of the college, Prof A E Lasher, who will go out in about three weeks. Prof Lasher came here from Napa Cal. He is an excellent teacher but as a financier he is a failure He has had full charge of the college including the boarding department and has collected in advance tuition and board from pupils The trustees have been unable to get an accounting from Mr Lasher, and the members of the faculty are clamoring for their salaries. It is impossible to estimate the deficit. The books are in a jumble and have been placed in the hands of an expert. In addition to this, Professor Lasher has made himself exceedingly objectionable to the pupils and a mild sort of insurrection has been in progress for some time The pupils complain that they are not given enough to eat and many of them rebelled and refused to attend morning prayers

A few days ago a large delegation of young men marched in a body to the trustees, and declared that unless Lasher were removed they would all leave college. The institution is exceptionally prosperous in spite of these difficulties A short time ago citizens of this city raised a cash fund of nearly $100 000 as a gift. Lasher's place will probably be filled by H. H. Adams, of Bloomington, Ill

Report says her husband would not give her the medicine the physician brought her, but put it in his pocket and gave her morphine instead Dr Oglesby took her some brandy and loaf sugar, and as soon as he was gone Ed drank the brandy and ate the sugar—so the neighbors say Anything that was brought for her he would eat or drink it.

STRIKE OF IRONMOLDERS.

Three Hundred Union Men in San Francisco Quit Work—The Issue

SAN FRANCISCO March 3.—The trouble which has been threatened for some time between the Ironmolders Union and the Engineers and Iron Foundrymen's Association culminated to-day in a general strike of all the molders employed in the fourteen foundries represented in the association The strikers number over 300 but as there are about 700 other workmen in the foundries who are dependent upon the work of the molders the whole number of men who are idle is about 1000

The strikers says that the association has not kept the agreement which it made with the Molders Union, in which it was stipulated that $3 50 should be the minimum rate of wages for a day's work of ten hours, that non union men should not be employed and that but one apprentice for every eight journeymen should be employed The members of the association declare that their rate of wages is much higher than in Eastern cities and they do not propose to leave what shall constitute a day's work to be defined by the union

This strike is regarded here as one of the greatest conflicts between capital and labor in the history of the Pacific states The owners or managers of the principal firms affected were interviewed to-day on the situation, with the following result

Henry T Scott of the Union Iron Works says he is not afraid of the strike by any means though he has an abundance of orders on hand and more coming in We will send our work East, said he and by so doing will save money

Mr Kerr of the Occidental foundry takes a rather disconsolate view of the situation and says candidly that he will have to quit business unless the difficulty is soon settled

Ira P. Rankin of the Pacific Iron Works, acknowledges that inconvenience will be experienced on account of the strike but says he will not be seriously affected as he will have work finished in the East. Mr Hayes of the Fulton Iron Works and L C Marschutz, of the National Iron Works, are practically of the same opinion as regards their shops.

RAILROADS DECLARE WAR.

Cheap Rates From Chicago to This Coast—Very Lively Cutting

SAN FRANCISCO March 3.—The agency of the Chicago Milwaukee & St Paul railroad announced to-day a reduction from $72 50 to $68 on first class tickets from this city to Chicago and from $47 50 to $40 on second class tickets Several other lines are expected to make a similar reduction to-morrow

DENVER March 3.—The Rock Island has taken the first step in the passenger war by announcing a rate from Denver to Chicago of $61 This is a reduction of $4 50 and is to go into effect to-morrow The Missouri Pacific and Alton have met the cut and it is presumed other lines will do so to-morrow

CHICAGO March 3.—The Rock Island to-day announced another reduction in passenger rates to Council Bluffs and Kansas City bringing them down to $8 and $5 for first and second classes All other lines have met the cut. This makes the new rate the same both ways

SAN FRANCISCO March 3.—[Special Telegram.]—One of the most active ticket brokers to-day sold second-class tickets to Chicago for $37 each and did a good business. Fourth Vice-President Stubbs, of the Southern Pacific Company said this evening So long as the reduction in rates is stood by the roads east of the Missouri river, the Transcontinental association has nothing to say, but there is a complication of interests that makes the situation look serious. The way things now stand the least thing is liable to cause a good deal of irritation In addition to bad blood existing between the Q line on the one hand and the Milwaukee on the other, four of the lines east of the river are dissatisfied with the Union Pacific Northwestern alliance and by the terms of the latter the Union Pacific has no share with the Northwestern in the part of its cut between Omaha and Chicago Such companies as the Q and Rock Island that own lines north east and west of the river, may get restless enough to cut rates into Colorado That would certainly bring the fight clear out to California.

General Passenger Agent Goodman, of the Southern Pacific Company, to-day said of the situation It may result in very serious circumstances. The Milwaukee road is trying to force the Q line to restore rates between Chicago and St. Paul. As a means to this end it has struck the Q people in a tender spot by reducing rates between Chicago and the Missouri river Of course all the lines east of the river must meet this reduction Now if lines of the river join in the cut and there will be trouble in the Transcontinental Association

THE BEHRING SEA TREATY

Negotiations Progressing Smoothly—Poachers Preparing for Their Last Season

TORONTO March 3.—A special to the Empire from Ottawa says Advices received by the government from Washington relative to the Behring sea negotiations are very encouraging but at the present juncture it would be considered impolitic to indicate their nature Washington correspondents are indulging in considerable guess work on the subject but some of their guesses are wide of the mark The latest reports are to the effect that the negotiations in reference to Atlantic fisheries have proceeded so far towards a settlement on a basis satisfactory to both governments that the operation of the modus vivendi has been postponed indefinitely On this point it may be stated that continuance of the modus vivendi arrangement rests with Canada alone legislation on the part of the Dominion parliament simply being necessary to give it effect.

MATERIAL FOR BAGGING

SALEM March 3.—[TO THE EDITOR.]—Some weeks ago Pomona grange of Marion county had under consideration the question of the feasibility of employing the convict labor of the state in the manufacture of jute grain sacks and appointed the writer a committee to write to the secretary of agriculture for some seed of the jute in order to test its growth here

Being apprehensive that the climate of Oregon was too cold a statement of the extremes and mean temperature of our seasons was written, and the query if there was any other fibre plants of value known to the department of agriculture, which might promise to succeed in Oregon. The enclosed letter was received in reply and read before the grange March 1, and ordered printed. As THE OREGONIAN has the widest circulation of any paper on the North Pacific, I send it to you, hoping you will give it room, and thereby enable other farmers, whether grangers or not to apply for a copy of the report alluded to by Mr Dodge, when it shall be published. And no doubt Mr Hermann Dolph or Mitchell will secure a copy

Flax culture was tried in Oregon years ago, enough to prove that our soil and climate will produce the very finest of flax fibre and also that we can produce good seed but attempts made to cultivate it for either object alone have not been so profitable as to become a permanent addition to the farmer's resources If later improvements in methods will enable the farmer to sell both seed and fibre it may prove of great value to us in giving a change of crops and a home supply of raw material for the manufacture of jute sacks

JOHN MINTO.

LETTER FROM DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

WASHINGTON Feb 20 1890.

Mr John Minto, Salem Or—Dear Sir Your letter to the secretary of agriculture has been referred to me for reply

Jute culture would not succeed in your state, as it requires a warm, moist climate like the river sections of Louisiana. I cannot refer you to any other fibre plants suitable for your purpose, except flax. It is thought that flax can be grown both for seed and a cheap grade of fiber at the same time, with a little better practice and more care in handling The department will soon issue a report on this subject, a copy of which will be sent you when published

Doubtless your soil and climate (Oregon) are most favorable for the culture of flax for fine fiber alone, and when the requirements of the industry are better known by your farmers it might become one of the resources of the state. The foreign methods of flax culture are stated in the report above referred to Very truly yours,

Even Non-Union Brakemen Strike.

PITTSBURG March 3.—Some sixty yard brakemen of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie road have struck for an advance of 25 cents per day, and as a consequence have tied up this end of the line. They chose the moment with excellent judgment. Miles of freight is awaiting for brakemen who cannot be found The peculiarity of the strike is that the men are non union, utterly without a head.

DEBATE ON THE PARNELL REPORT

Gladstone Makes a Vigorous Speech—The Commissioners Showed Prejudice Throughout—Dishonesty of Tory Statesmanship

LONDON March 3.—Speaking in the lords with reference to the charges made by Labouchere Lord Salisbury explained that he met General Probyn casually at a railway station and that they had a very brief and hurried conversation during which General Probyn referred to the scandal Whatever passed between them Lord Salisbury said he gave the house of lords his assurance that he never said a warrant was about to be issued against Somerset. Lord Salisbury declared that he could not believe a man of General Probyn's character would interview him for the purpose of worming out information in order to defeat justice

Gladstone in the commons to-day referred to the suspension of Henry Labouchere Friday for language regarding Lord Salisbury in the discussion of the Cleveland street scandal and asked that he be allowed to make the following motion

The house deems it necessary to declare that when members prefer a charge against a minister which is denied such member ought not to be restrained from refusing to accept the denial and from persisting in the charge because the minister is a member of the house of lords The announcement of the motion was greeted with opposition cheers.

Hon W H Smith government leader, said he would consider Gladstone's request.

To-night Smith moved the adoption of the report of the Parnell commission He considered that the course proposed would do absolute justice to the members whose conduct had been impugned and all the persons included in the allegations of the newspaper which published the charges. There were certain features of the publications which were deeply deplored but other accusations were justified by the report It was a unique report [laughter by the opposition], but the impartiality of the judges has been acknowledged by the accused members, whose acquittal from personal charges he thought a subject for hearty congratulation. Regarding the commission's finding, certain respondents guilty of conspiracy, the government might be asked why it did not take action these on He held that it was no part of the intention of the government to constitute the commission with a view to inflicting punishment on the Parnellites. [Groans and laughter from the opposition.]

Gladstone moved the amendment, announced by Morley, declaring that the house reprobates the charges based upon calumny that had been made against members of the house, and while expressing satisfaction at the exposure made of evil doers regrets the wrong inflicted, the suffering and losses endured through those acts of flagrant iniquity

Gladstone said the government motion was utterly insufficient to do justice to the members impugned, it failed to represent the sense of the opinion which the house and the country had formed of the commission's report. Was it he asked ever before proposed to a legislative body that they should accept in a lump a report of 160 folio pages bristling with controversial matter In what respect had the judges of the commission more weight and authority than other experienced men in deciding how far crime was due to the league and how far to oppressive eviction? As an instance of their disproportionate and unbalanced judgment the judges had unearthed an obscure paper the Irishman, filling several pages of their report with extracts therefrom, which had been termed by Archbishop Walsh most abominable Were they equally liberal in according blame for other things that were quite as abominable, when they dealt with the grand capital offenses into which they were especially directed to inquire? All that was said with utmost single word of denunciation, was that the letter on which the detestable charges were founded, was a forgery [Cries of "hear hear"] The report convicted respondents of joining the league with a view to the separation of Ireland and England This occurred in 1880. In 1890 he rejoiced to believe the idea of separation was dead [Cheers] but he maintained that debate of the moral authority of the union was in Irishmen no moral offense whatever [Cheers]

The report said the Parnellites by speeches had incited intimidation which was a crime and that they had not assisted in maintaining order by denouncing advocates of physical force These charges were ten years old. It was a bad and dangerous precedent to recur to these old dates in order to obtain matter to hurl at the heads of political antagonists Did not the tories themselves think something could be said in behalf of a milder policy when Lord Carnarvon under the assent of Lord Salisbury asked Parnell to devise a scheme of government for Ireland. Changes had already taken place in Ireland and reforms would be accomplished without violence largely through the wise and constitutional methods of the Irish party The report said nothing on these matters.

Gladstone hesitated to embody in the amendment an expression of thanks to the commission, because it was hazardous and unprecedented to render thanks for the performance of a judicial duty Gladstone further said that in asking the house to give full effect to the acquittal of Parnell on all the serious charges he would have the members recollect the infamy of the accusations. They were not made at random they were made with solemn assurance that they had been subjected to the most careful scrutiny Let not the members hesitate to give what acknowledgment of regret they could to a man who had suffered an enormous wrong [Cheers]

Gladstone severely criticised many other points in the judges' report It expressed he said, a number of opinions upon issues in no sense judicial. Their statement that the land legislation of 1882 had no effect as regards diminishing crime is entirely untrue The tories came into power on Parnell's shoulders and now they forsake him and seek by a vote of the house to condemn his acts and policy the whole benefit of which they took then and have held ever since The commission he said had taken a great mass of facts and then said "We cannot look to the right or left we can look neither backward nor forward, all we have to do is to return a verdict on the dry facts." Is parliament to act on such principles? It is the duty of members to survey the whole range of circumstances and the great historic effects which brought about the Irish crisis, otherwise it would be impossible to do justice.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach said that while there might be nothing in the proved charges to justify an indictment for treason, he was surprised that gentlemen who had been and who might again be ministers could excuse and palliate such charges. He cited Parnell as authority against the assertion that the conservatives before coming into office had pledged themselves not to renew the coercion act, and called upon Sir William Vernon Harcourt to apologize for that calumny

Harcourt rose and said he had never heard such a statement, then declaring that he would not stay to be abused he left the house

Sir Michael, continuing, said the charges on which the Parnellites had been acquitted were possibly more important to themselves and their personal honor, but the charges on which they had been proved guilty were more important to the community because they related to practices, the revival of which would be fatal to the liberty and prosperity of the country.

CABLE NOTES

France About to Annex Dahomey.

PARIS, March 3.—A report has been received by the government from the governor of Senegal, stating that 800 of the king of Dahomey's troops attacked the French force under the command of Terrillon at Zebo After a fight the French repulsed the natives, killing and wounding 100. It is reported that the government intends to annex the kingdom of Dahomey to the French possessions in Africa and that a large expedition will be sent to the west coast. The expedition, it is said, will be under orders to act promptly upon its arrival, in order to avert the putting to death of many captives on the occasion of the king's accession to the throne it being the custom in Dahomey to sacrifice a large number of prisoners and Dahomians at all state and religious ceremonies

Prosperity of Bret Harte.

LONDON March 3.—[Special Telegram.]—Bret Harte is entertaining here like a lord, and lives like a gentleman He is, besides, a prodigious worker It was thought at one time that his pen had lost its cunning, but it was a lapse into a state of idleness that was good for the author. He is paid well for his work in the English weeklies and magazines, and he has more orders for stories on hand than he can possibly fill for the next five years He does an occasional leader for the Times or Standard or the News and he is often in demand by weekly papers for a review of some book of current interest, but he prefers story writing as a matter of choice and as a matter of pecuniary profit.

The French Ministry Very Shaky.

PARIS, March 3.—The chamber of deputies to-day discussed the interpolation of Dreyfus in regard to the resignation of Constans. Premier Tirard denied that there was any discord in the cabinet He defended the course of the ministry in consenting to take part in the Berlin labor conference, and said it was folly to question the patriotism of the cabinet in connection with the matter A vote of confidence in the government was adopted—240 to 200 The division is regarded as adverse to the government, in view of the fact that 120 deputies abstained from voting

Diseased American Cattle in England.

LONDON March 3.—In the commons Lang, member for Dundee asked whether the condition of American cattle justified regulations providing for their slaughter at the port where landed. Chaplin, head of the agricultural department, replied that the American government was not complying with the conditions of the act of 1878, and therefore the present restrictions could not be relaxed In 1889 forty seven head of cattle from America affected with pleuro-pneumonia had arrived in England

The Pope's Twelfth Anniversary

ROME, March 3.—To-day is the twelfth anniversary of the coronation of the pope. High mass was celebrated in the Sistine chapel.

The pope has given Buffalo Bill's Indians a lot of medals chaplets and crosses, and to-day received the whole troupe in the Ducal hall.

Renegade Apaches Reeking in Blood.

WILCOX Ariz. March 3.—Information was received here to-day that a freighter named Herbert was murdered by Indians yesterday near a point of rocks nine miles from Fort Thomas Herbert's wagon was burned and his horses stolen The crime was reported by courier, as the Indians had cut the telegraph wires between the military posts Lieutenant Clark, from Fort Thomas and Lieutenant Watson from San Carlos, have arrived on the scene and started in pursuit of the Indians It is reported that ranches are being abandoned

Telegraph communication has now been restored by Lieutenant Clarke. Lieutenant Watson, with Indian scouts, and troops, have arrived on the scene from San Carlos They all took the trail this morning Particulars are meager as to the number of Indians implicated, or the direction taken by them Many people here think if Geronimo and his gang of followers were now located at Fort Hill, Indian territory, where General Crook is doing his utmost to get them, Arizona would be in a fair way to again experience the difficulties of early days.

Religion and the State.

BALTIMORE March 3.—Rev Dr Tobias Schanfarver lectured yesterday on "Religious Movements in Congress" He said the introduction of bills savoring of religion will shake the very foundation of our government and work for the establishment of anarchy These legislators forget in their zeal for their religion that they are endangering the existence of the grand structure. The standards of their religion are pessimistic, and full of darkness and gloom Where its precepts are not strong enough to require adherence, they would call in the strong arm of the government for their heavenly work Not by all the Blair Sunday rest and educational bills that were ever devised will a condition of affairs be instituted to the credit of the government and mankind, and not by joining our free public schools to the church of non sectarian Christianity will the millenium be brought about. Force is a poor weapon we have enough law, we want more liberty Chain the mind of the free-thinking man, and it will soon break through and hurt the tyrant.

The Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

PEACH SPRINGS, Ariz., March 3.—Chief Engineer Stanton and his party of railroad surveyors reached the mouth of Diamond creek, twenty five miles below this place, March 1. Every one in the party is perfectly well, not having had any serious accident of any kind since that to Photographer Nims on January 1. The trip through the Grand Canyon of the Colorado has been one of much danger and excitement, but has been so far successful in every way One boat was lost while letting it down a fall, but no one was in it. After that the chief boatman in charge of the fleet deserted the party In running one rapid Mr Hislop was thrown out of his boat, but his life-preserver kept him up till he was picked up further down A sudden rise in the river last week of ten feet, made a two days' ride through the narrowest and crookedest part of the canyon wild, exciting and perilous. Every one, however, came through without a scratch. The party will be here for a few days to get a new supply before going further

A Boston Financier Steals Millions

BOSTON March 3.—[Special Telegram.]—Last summer George P Brown, head of the wool firm of Brown Steese & Clark and treasurer of the Riverside and Oswego Mills, suddenly fled the country His books have been experted and showed a deficiency of $1,700,000. Brown has handled immense sums of money. In the last four years he had deposited fifty millions in two banks, to say nothing of deposits in five other banks. Brown's method of abstracting money were various The favorite one was as follows Discount on a piece of paper would be obtained at a bank other than where his regular account was kept It is quite probable there was indebtedness maturing at that bank and the amount would be deducted and a check drawn for the balance. This check, instead of being deposited, would be used to partially pay a debt elsewhere, his check on the former being given for differences, and thus no record of the transaction appears.

Chalkley Leconey Acquitted.

CAMDEN, N J, March 3.—There was great excitement in the courtroom to-day when Prosecutor Jenkins, in the middle of a powerful speech closing the trial of Chalkley Leconey for the murder of his niece was prostrated by an attack of heart failure. Physicians announced that it was not serious, and the court took a recess. Later the prosecutor agreed to let the case go to the jury on the charge of the court. Judge Garrison charged that willful premeditation was not proved, and a verdict of murder in the first degree should not be rendered. He said verdicts of murder in the second degree, manslaughter or acquittal would lay At 12 25 the jury retired At 3.25 they returned with a verdict of not guilty.

A Young Drunkard Burned to Death.

CHEYENNE, March 3.—[Special Telegram.]—At the morgue is a box containing the remains of Ed M Shannon The dead man and four others were in a suburban wine room yesterday, and in their drunken antics upset a stove All but Shannon escaped from the structure The wall fell in on him as he was staggering to the door He was burned so that he could only be identified by his jewelry Shannon was a young Californian attached to the quartermaster's department at Fort Russell He had saved $5000 and intended to leave this week for a visit to his mother at Brooklyn

A Canadian Pacific Cut-Off.

DULUTH, Minn, March 3.—The report that a transcontinental system had been arranged between Duluth and Winnipeg by the Canadian Pacific and Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic, was semi officially confirmed to-day. The proposed route, which will be from west to east via Winnipeg Duluth and the Soo will be fifteen miles shorter than the Canadian Pacific through route In addition to this, however, through traffic will be diverted from the worst section of the Canadian Pacific system from Winnipeg to Sudbury

OREGONIANA.

Last Wednesday morning the thermometer registered 17 degrees below zero at Heppner. The loss of cattle and sheep was not large until the last cold weather, but it is apprehended that many will die now as feed is very scarce

Salem's temporary ferry boat which was very quickly built at that city will be running early this week. As soon as possible a steam ferry will be put on the route between Marion and Polk county and will be run until the new bridge can be erected

Recently a lady of Silverton while preparing a meal for the family broke a hen's egg and among the contents was a small egg about the size of a dove's much the shape and appearance of its mother egg. It has a shell and appears to be perfect in itself

Seventy three persons in Wasco county in 1889 paid taxes on valuations of property exceeding five thousand dollars. Among the largest taxpayers are The Dalles Military Road Co on $68 009 French & Co $61 535 P T Sharp $37 475 McFarland & French $3 550, Robert Mays & Son, $25 000 Vogt & Co $25 000 etc

By all means let the city and county unite in providing the site and erecting thereon a fine building for joint occupancy says the Astorian Columbian. Property is cheap and now is the time to secure a desirable location. The building can, at small additional cost be made the most prominent one in Astoria and thus become our chief attraction for visitors

John Hewett, late of the Missouri Pacific, has been appointed master mechanic of the Pacific division of the Union Pacific railway to succeed Evans. This means a new management of affairs at this end of the road which will be highly beneficial to Albina, says the Courier. The Courier further says that it means that all of the work now being done at The Dalles will be transferred to the shops in that city, and that all of the steam boat work will be done there.

A Tillamook correspondent who is also an observer says in the Salem Statesman that "if the Salem and Astoria railroad passes through Nestucca Pass, it will touch or afford an easy communication with the Little Nestucca, Slab creek Salmon river, Big Nestucca, Sand lake Cape Lookout Beaver creek, Burnt Prairie, South Prairie, and other settlements. Hundreds upon hundreds of acres of fine land yet open for settlement will be taken and the ring of the woodman's ax will resound through the immense forests of Tillamook county."

WASHINGTONIANA.

In Seattle 142 building permits were issued in February. The cost of these structures will be $259 225

Chehalis is making a move toward securing the location there of the new land office to be given this district.

Says the Yakima Herald. In championing the division of the Yakima land district Congressman Wilson is not only doing Yakima an injury but he is also doing a great injustice to the people residing in the upper part of that county

The contract for carrying the mails from Port Townsend to Whatcom and intermediate postoffices has been awarded to Morgan & Vann of the steamer Evangel. The contract is for four years at $9 990 per annum, and begins July 1 1890

Ed C Ross of Prescott, nominated by President Harrison as register of the land office at Walla Walla is an old pioneer and was for seven years editor of the Walla Walla Union and is a man whose fitness and competency no one can doubt

Work on the big Sunnyside ditch in Yakima county will soon be started. The company has completed the purchase of 60 000 acres of land from the Northern Pacific, and are now arranging to break ground and prosecute the work with vigor

Up to Saturday night 145 suits had been commenced in the superior court of Walla Walla county since its organization November 13 1889. Thirteen criminal cases are included in the total. The superior court started with a legacy of eighty six cases from the territorial district court

In Seattle during the month of February, there were eleven fires in tents by which twenty were destroyed and one damaged twice. The total loss resulting from these fires as estimated by the department, is $15 050. The losses as estimated by those burned out is greatly in excess of this.

Quite a chapter of accidents occurred on Saturday at Hornby's mill, Chehalis. Walter [illegible] timekeeper, had his leg crushed between logs at the rollway. The sawyer attempting to help him, received a severe cut [illegible] by the lever breaking, throwing [illegible] place later in the day cut [illegible] with an ax.

Mr Supack of Roslyn says the [illegible] burgh Cavalier was before the county commissioners last week and made application for a saloon license, after which he went home to procure the necessary $1000 to pay for the same. Several parties did not like the idea of his taking out a license in advance of his neighbors, so they collected at his place last Saturday night and got up a row, lights were blown out and four or five shots were fired—one of which went through the arm of a chair which Mr Supack was holding in front of him for protection. Strange to say no one was hurt except Mrs S, who was struck on the chin with a revolver while trying to avert an attack on her husband

A petition has been in circulation for the past week at North Yakima and numerously signed asking the county commissioners to submit to a vote of the people the proposition to build a $50 000 courthouse to take the place of the present building, which is inadequate to the needs of the county. There is a valuable block of land in North Yakima which was given by the Northern Pacific railroad to the county for this purpose, and which if not soon utilized, will revert back to the company

At Stretor 150 men employed in the Pacific Mill Company's works went on a strike last week. The trouble was caused by an attempt to introduce the Eastern system of paying off the hands reducing their wages and closing the boarding house leaving the men to hustle for boarding places in the small community. By the old system each man was paid so much per month, according to his work and his board the company running a cook house in conjunction with the sawmill

Miss Abbie Jackson, a daughter of Mrs T W Sullens of Port Townsend, about 10 o'clock on the morning of February 25 attempted self destruction by throwing herself from the bluff in front of her home on Jefferson street. She fell about twenty five feet but was not seriously injured. She is 19 years old and has been a cripple since childhood having suffered the loss of a limb. She alleged as the cause leading her to take the desperate leap the cruel and brutal abuse of her stepfather. She declares she will not live and will yet kill herself

In all matters connected with the toilet. They have decided that SOZODONT is what they will have. When a woman will, she will you may depend on't and when she won't she won't there's and end on't. This accounts for the popularity of SOZODONT

Gossiping About the Spring Race Meeting—The Fanny Damaged—Other Miscellaneous Local Notes.

THE FANNY DAMAGED.—The steamer Fanny came very near having a serious smashup yesterday morning by colliding with the steel bridge. The boat was trying to pass through the draw. The boat was coming down the river, and whistled for the draw to open, but the bridge engineer did not respond as readily as was expected, and the steamer drifted off close to the O. & C. east side pier. When the draw did open the Fannie was close to the span east of the draw, and the current started the boat under full headway, trying to right her after striking the opening; but was not going fast enough to gain steerage way, and the steamer drifted into the north end of the draw, demolishing a part of the pilot house, cracking a "hog post," and otherwise damaging the upper works. The boat was not, however, materially damaged, and she steamed down to the North Pacific mills, where she will be repaired.

DISTINGUISHED TRAVELER.—Among the passengers on the Oregon yesterday was Mr. Yan Phou Lee, a Chinese gentleman, a graduate of Yale College, on his way to New Haven. Mr. Yan Phou Lee was graduated in 1887, and was among the first fifteen in scholarship of a class of one hundred and fifty. Mr. Lee was married the week after graduating to a Miss Jerome, of New Haven, and is now on his way to join his family residing in that city. He will devote himself to literary work and public lecturing. In his sophomore year Mr. Lee obtained the first prize for English composition in a class of one hundred and fifty American competitors. He is the author of a book entitled "When I was a Boy in China," which has run through three editions. He will remain a week in Portland to see something of the city and then go on to his Eastern home by way of the Northern Pacific.

THE SOON-EXPECTED.—The transformation of the Washington and [illegible] railway into an electric line has been delayed by the non-arrival of the new electric cars. The powerhouse is practically completed, the track has been wired, and the overhead wires are strung and everything is about ready for beginning work under the new dispensation as soon as the cars arrive. Yesterday L. B. Martin, president of the Multnomah Street Railway Company, received a dispatch stating that five of the cars passed Omaha on the 23d of last month. They will probably arrive within a few days and it is quite likely that the cars will be running on Washington street within a week. The cars coming are all open ones, and there are a lot more of the same kind ordered for the summer business. Before Winter the closed cars will be here.

WORK AT THE JETTY.—Mr. G. B. Hegardt, who superintends the work on the jetty at the mouth of the Columbia, was in the city yesterday, and submitted his monthly report to Major T. H. Handbury. The damage done to the jetty by the late storm has all been repaired. The piledriver was [illegible] and restored the bents and piles knocked out, and the "caps" which were lifted have been restored to the piles, and everything is in complete order for the next storm. Major Handbury has under consideration the construction of a telephone line from the superintendent's office at Fort Stevens to the end of the jetty, which will be a great convenience, enabling the workmen at the end of the jetty to communicate with the office, and thus save the running of an engine the whole length of it whenever anything is needed.

A GREAT SNOW STORM.—Mr Ed Lyon, whose field of duty lies somewhere up in the Palouse or Colfax country, looking after the Union Pacific lines, says the last snow storm there was a terror. The ground was about bare when it began, and there came down eighteen inches of snow on a level. It made lively work for the snow plows, but the trouble is all over now, and there will be no more blockades this winter, sure. Mr. Lyon says that in some places the roads run through snow banks forty feet deep, where it has been thrown up by four gangs of shovelers from one to another. It will take the chinook some time to melt away such snow banks as these. Mr Lyon says the loss of cattle through his section will be about 25 per cent., but some persons have lost all.

TWENTY-FOUR HOURS LONGER.—Chief Railway Mail Clerk Berry, having made all the necessary arrangements for transferring United States mail between Riddles and Glendale, where washouts and landslides have combined to close railway communications, has returned to the city. He made a personal inspection of the obstructions in person and engaged the necessary conveyances to transfer the mail across the gap. The time consumed in carrying the mail across by stage is twelve hours, but twelve hours more are lost in making connections, so that now mail will be twenty-four hours longer in coming and going between San Francisco and Portland than when the road was clear before the floods.

TROUBLE OVER AN UMBRELLA.—Officer Day yesterday afternoon arrested a young lady on a charge of stealing an umbrella belonging to one of the guests of the St. Charles hotel. The young lady admitted that the umbrella was presented to her by an admiring porter, but when he was called to substantiate her statement there was a discrepancy in their statements. He said that he only loaned it to her for one evening. The young lady evidently had no criminal intentions and was very much grieved at the humiliation of being placed under arrest. The umbrella was finally restored to its rightful owner and the matter was hushed.

HORSE THIEF CAUGHT.—Sunday afternoon some [illegible] horse thief, entered the stable of John Burke, at the corner of Sixteenth and S streets, and made away with his horse. The police were notified and they in turn telegraphed a description of the horse to the police officials of the surrounding towns. Yesterday the chief of police of Oregon City wired that he had captured the horse and rider, and would hold them until some one could be sent after them. The thief's name is said to be Joe Anderson. He is a young man but [illegible]. Officer Day will go after the prisoner and the horse to-day.

A ONE-STORY BRICK.—The clearing away of the old shanties which have so long encumbered the quarter block at the northeast corner of First and Taylor streets, has caused many to wonder what sort of an improvement was to be made there. The property is owned by L. Therkelsen, who intends to erect a one-story brick building for stores. It will be of a temporary character, and when the proper time comes will be torn down to make room for a first-class building. The one-story brick will be a great improvement on what has been on the property.

HAPPY PLUMBERS.—"A person can't be mistaken in a plumber," said a visitor to a reporter in a restaurant yesterday afternoon. "They go about wearing a smile broad enough to consume the rest of their face, and appear to be in the height of their glory." The reporter was somewhat incredulous, but just then two plumbers entered the door carrying their tools under their arms and wended their way to the kitchen. Their faces bore the self-satisfied, contented look of a [illegible], and the reporter gave up the [illegible] in the argument.

PORTLAND SPEED ASSOCIATION.—The Portland Speed Association meets to-night for important business, chiefly to complete the programme for the spring meeting. A new contract must also be made for plowing up and grading the track at City View. Then the pump and grand stand will have to be repaired. Secretary Gunst is in receipt of several letters from horse owners about the [illegible], and some definite action must be arrived at. The outlook is for the largest meeting ever held in Portland. The purses are the largest ever offered.

MOVED BY DEGREES.—The halls adjacent to the auditor's office in the Union Pacific building are filled with dozens of big chests stowed full of books and papers pertaining to the office, ready for removal to Omaha. The auditor's office has been going there for some time, but has not gone yet. Perhaps when it has been removed there will be an end of the cards pinned around the [illegible] saying that "The pay checks have not arrived from Omaha yet," which have such a depressing effect on employes.

OFFICERS ELECTED.—The Marine Engineers' Association No. 41, elected the following officers Saturday evening for the ensuing year: President, William T. Smith; vice president, Thomas [illegible]; recording secretary, Claude Troup; financial secretary, Al Jackson; corresponding secretary, William Coffin; treasurer, Fred Gates; chaplain, Charles Evans; conductor, William Maher; doorkeeper, William Lewis; trustees, J. W. [illegible], John O'Neil and Thomas Smith.

MANAGER HOWE RETURNED.—Manager J. P. Howe returned yesterday, after riding six days on the Southern Pacific. Mr. Howe through a force of circumstances was compelled to leave his business last Tuesday in an unsettled state. Mrs. Howe deemed it important for him to return, and wired him to that effect. He concluded to return, after traveling nearly half the distance to New York. He however, sent a representative who will carry out his plans.

DANISH SOCIETY.—The Danish Society, which gave a ball at Turner hall last Saturday evening [illegible] of promise for the future. The occasion passed pleasantly off. Mrs. J. Beck, C. E. Petersen and S. H. Fesher were the committee of arrangements. The floor committee were M. Larsen and P. Christensen. About fifty couple participated in the dance. The society is yet young but has hopes to be a strong organization soon.

HIGH AND LOW.—The Willamette river has its ups and downs like everything else in this country, but it is seldom it gets up so high and down again within so short a time as it did during last month. In the first week in the month the water was about 28½ feet above low water mark and in the last week it was within 1.3 feet of extreme low water, a difference of 27.2 feet. The "difference" alone makes a very respectable river of itself.

THE MARSHALSHIP.—Hon. Louis T. Barin will qualify as United States marshal for Oregon, vice [illegible] Myers, next Thursday. "I do not know yet," said he, "who will constitute my force of deputies, but Hon. J. P. Gregg, of Salem, will be my chief clerk, to succeed Mr. Driggs, the present incumbent. I have not yet selected my deputies." The office of chief clerk is worth $2000 a year, and that of deputy about $1500.

JOHN BOYLE O'REILLY.—The committee of arrangements, having in charge the appearance here of this distinguished author and speaker, have waited upon Governor Pennoyer and secured his consent to preside at Mr. O'Reilly's lecture, March 18. The Marquam Grand opera house has been secured for the evening. Arrangements are also in progress for a banquet to be given Mr. O'Reilly upon his arrival.

"THE TRACK WAS A LITTLE SOFT."—A railroad man who went down to San Francisco on the last steamer telegraphed back to a friend here yesterday that he arrived all right, and added, to give the idea that he had been up and around during the trip, that "the track was a little soft in places."

EXPECTED HOME.—Mr. James Havely, chief clerk in the office of W. H. Kennedy, chief engineer of the Union Pacific for this division, who has been at Omaha for a short time, was expected to arrive home last night.

MUSICAL SOCIAL GATHERING.—There will be a musical and social gathering at the Unitarian chapel on Seventh street this (Tuesday) evening. All are invited. Admission, 25 cents.

GRAY'S HARBOR.—Steamer Alliance sails on Wednesday at 1 P. M. for the above point.

ACME SOCIAL CLUB whist party to-night.

THE WATER WAS TWO FEET HIGHER.

Mr. Eastham Thinks the Late Flood Greater Than That of '61.

Mr. E. L. Eastham, of the Willamette Falls Electric Company, was in the city yesterday for the first time since February 1. He has been suffering from an attack of neuralgia, contracted while escaping from Salem during the flood in an open boat down the raging, roaring Willamette. Mr. Eastham says that there was more water coming down the Willamette during the late flood than came down during the great flood of December, 1861. He bases his statement on the stage of water at Oregon City, compared with marks made in 1861. He has made comparisons with several marks of this kind. At a point near the suspension bridge, Oregon City, the river is very deep, and the banks are basalt rock, in the same condition as when Adam was a boy, so the condition of the water there is the same as in 1861. At this point the water was two feet higher during the late flood than it was in 1861. At Rock island, four miles above Oregon City, the bottom and banks are of hard basalt rock, and are in probably the same condition as they were during the great original flood of Noah, except that the United States engineers have improved the channel a little by blasting out the rocks, which would have a tendency to make the water lower. At this point the water was two feet higher during the late flood than in the flood of 1861. Mr. Eastham has several other records to base his calculations on, and has no hesitancy in stating that the flood of February, 1890, was the greatest in the Willamette within the memory of man.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

The locks at Oregon City will be opened in about a week.

Frank Glover, the well-known pugilist, arrived in the city last night from San Francisco on the Oregon. It is understood that he will challenge the winner of the Conley-Flaherty fight which comes off at the pavilion Saturday night.

Mr. W. F. Wamsley, general freight and passenger agent of the Oregon and Washington road at Walla Walla, is in the city, and will leave to-day for home. Mr. Wamsley reports the people of his section gratified at the decided moderation in the temperature. There is considerable snow yet on the ground. This has served very well to protect the newly-risen grain from danger, and none is therefore anticipated. Mr. Wamsley corroborates the testimony of other East Oregonians about the losses of stock. He says feed is quite short there, and that the road has been carrying in feed on passenger trains.

BUSINESS ITEMS.

If you once try Carter's Little Liver Pills for sick headache, biliousness or constipation, you will never be without them. They are purely vegetable, small and easy to take. Don't forget this.

A Contrast.

The Somerville Journal says: "An honest man is the noblest work of God, and a balky horse is about the meanest." We beg to add that one of the noblest works ever vouchsafed to man, by man, was the universal dissemination of Dr. Tutt's Liver Pills. There is no medicine so happily adapted to the old and young as these pills. For torpid bowels, indigestion, and loss of appetite their healing properties are wonderful. They are sold everywhere.

PORTLAND, TUESDAY, MARCH 4,

WASHINGTON'S TIDE LANDS.

Perhaps the most difficult of all the subjects before the legislature of the state of Washington is that which relates to adjustment and settlement of conflicting claims and interests in the tide lands. At several places on Puget sound where cities have sprung up the tide lands lying in front have become of very great value. Here and there they have been occupied for wharves, shops and mills. The ownership is, however, vested in the state. But there are two classes of claimants who assert equitable rights. The first are the shore or upland owners who lay claim to the flats and beaches lying in front of their lands, the second are those who occupy sites on the flats or beaches for business purposes, and who think it a hardship not to say positive injustice, that they should be interfered with.

There is a plan under consideration by the legislature for appraisement and sale of these lands. It provides that after a board of appraisers for each county shall have made examination of the lands prepared plats and estimated the values, applications for purchase of such lands may be received. But the abutting upland owner is to have the first right to purchase the tide lands in front of his premises, and if the upland owner has attempted hitherto to convey to a bona fide purchaser tide lands in front of such uplands then such purchaser is to have the first right to purchase the tide lands of the state at the appraised values.

It seems certain that any attempt to carry this plan into effect will produce a situation full of gravest difficulty. In front of every city the tide lands will extend to the harbor line, that is, a harbor line will be established which will be the limit of the tide lands to be sold and to some central point in the harbor all boundary lines will converge. The owner of an upland lot lying say fifty feet on the water front, is to have the right to purchase the tide lands in his front out to the harbor limit. But this long and constantly narrowing strip extending out into the bay in the direction of the center of the harbor will be cut into innumerable and irregular fractions by the streets and roadways that must be extended to the deep water front. There will be no fractions of any considerable value. Hence, at the cities, where alone the tide flats and beaches are valuable the upland owner of a lot or a small parcel of land abutting on the bay, will have no property in the tide land that will be of much value to him. He can not, therefore, afford to pay any considerable sum for the strip of tide land in front of his lot, and to others it will be worth less perhaps than to himself.

It would seem that at places like Seattle, Tacoma, Olympia, Port Townsend and other cities of Washington similarly situated the first thing that ought to be done is to fix the harbor lines and limits, then to lay out the streets, and finally to sell the lands. The equitable rights of present occupants of the tide lands could be guarded by provisions which would give them the first right to purchase at the appraised values, or at the values ascertained from sale of similar property in the vicinity—proper allowance being made for the occupant's improvements. The tide flats on the city front would thus be cut and subdivided into regular tracts, would bring a great deal of money to the state and would be valuable to purchasers. The other way, starting with a proposal to sell them to upland owner, they would bring little or nothing and would be of small value to anybody.

In the tide lands in front of her cities the state of Washington has a property of very great value. It is a value indeed that is inestimable. But whether it shall ever be available to the state or not will depend wholly on the manner in which the lands are managed. Whether the state is to realize say fifty millions of dollars or next to nothing, from these lands, is a question which can be answered with a good deal of certainty as soon as it shall appear what policy the legislature is going to adopt. The shore or upland lot owner can't give much for the lands, because they will not be worth much to him nor can other persons give much for them so long as a prior right is conceded to the shore owner. But if the lands are first defined by fixing the harbor limits, then are platted and streets and blocks plainly outlined, there will be something of positive value something visible tangible, to sell and buy, and the state will receive a great deal of money for the lands. Of course, these remarks apply only to the tide lands in front of the cities. At other places such lands are comparatively of little value. There are many thousands of acres of tide flats all over the Puget sound region that will sell for nothing at all.

IN ADVANCE OF NECESSITY.

While there is no doubt but vast tracts of arid lands in the great West might be made productive by irrigation it is not a matter of surprise that a majority of the members of congress feel that no immediate necessity exists for reclaiming these lands. As long as thousands of acres of arable lands are open to the intending settler in the far West and Northwest, and while good farming land is being abandoned in many states through the spirit of adventure that pushes the yeomanry out into the world seeking one can not wonder that the attempt to work an irrigation bill through congress is likely to fail.

In point of fact, there is a vast area of untilled lands in many states that could be made productive by the ordinary processes of cultivation and at the cultivator's own expense. Hence the reclamation of these arid lands of the farther West at government expense is deemed wholly unnecessary, and indeed far in advance of the legitimate demand of actual settlement.

The wilderness from which it was wrested by the patient toil of a past century is again encroaching upon the broad acres of storied New England while their erewhile tenants and hereditary possessors have pushed on and out upon the arid plains of the Dakotas from whence comes their plaint of famine and their appeal for a supply of water at government expense that will render their parched fields productive and slake the thirst of their suffering herds. Eastern representatives naturally and not unjustly regard this demand for irrigation as one that is in advance of present necessity, at least while Southern members remembering the vast tracts of land in their section that only await cultivation to become productive, see nothing but folly in the determination that has sent adventurous agriculturalists out upon the bleak table lands of the continent in search of homes that could have been made with much less hardship and expense in a section possessed of a mild climate.

Members of congress can be readily excused even by enthusiastic admirers of the mighty West for holding, the opinion that it is time enough to reclaim the desert lands of the nation when the people are crowded out upon them in search of homes. At present and for many years in the future there is no necessity for home seekers to locate upon arid lands and wail for assistance to keep them from starving. Arable lands are still in abundant supply if not for homestead entry at rates that any man who can afford to transport his family and household goods to the arid lands of the continent can pay. The time will come when these lands will be needed for the purposes of agriculture but it is safe to say that this necessity will not confront this generation. It is true that large portions of the Dakotas Montana Wyoming, Arizona and Colorado can only be made profitable to agriculture through irrigation. It is also true that private individuals cannot hope to compass an irrigation system adequate to the needs of agriculture in those rainless regions. But while land is abundant for all purposes of agriculture in various sections East, West and South, that are well supplied by nature with the conditions necessary to insure certain and abundant response to the intelligent efforts of husbandry, the extensive and expensive irrigation schemes that are being urged upon the attention of congress are not likely to be favorably considered by the majority.

LET BUILDINGS BE MOVED.

A very proper protest appeared yesterday in a letter to THE OREGONIAN against the ordinance to forbid house moving in the city. It is plain that the ordinance is inspired by the street railways and particularly the electric lines. All the car lines are allowed to use the streets without paying anything for such use and now they appear to regard the streets as their own private property, and the general public as trespassers. In fact there is no nuisance equal to a car line. The tracks occupy the streets so that vehicles have difficulty in passing, the cars stop habitually on the crossings and pedestrians are obliged to walk around them in the mud. poles wires and rails are everywhere in the way, there is always dread that the forces brought into use to drive them may become unmanageable and cause loss of life or limb. All these things however are tolerated for the sake of more rapid transit. But the street car business is sought as business that promises great profits, it is based solely on the use of the streets that belong to the public, and its managers ought to know that the public have rights which even those who monopolize the streets are bound to respect. Instead of trying to crowd everybody and everything else off the streets the managers of car lines ought to be thankful that they are permitted so large use of them. These franchises have been granted with too much facility and wholly without recompense to the city. Every line ought to pay into the city treasury or use of the streets a percentage of its earnings. In the present case the common council should not at the behest of the car companies, forbid the moving of buildings. Such action would put a stop in many localities to preparations for improvements, would keep many old buildings in their present situations and would prevent the erection of new and better ones in the business parts of the city. Even if the cars on a particular line have to be stopped half a day or if the wires must be cut to allow a building to pass, the car line needn't throw up its franchise. The public endure greater inconveniences every day through practical monopoly of the street by the car line.

CHAUNCEY DEPEW.

Chauncey Depew has small chance to be president of the United States, more's the pity. The West will make the next president, if he is a republican as he ought to be, and it will naturally make him out of Western material. If McKinley has the quality of brain to comprehend what the country wants in the way of tariff and revenue legislation, the capacity to frame it and the force to secure its enactment, he will be first in the line of succession to President Harrison. But Depew would be a very formidable candidate for president if he lived west of the Alleghenies. The people of the country are beginning to realize that he is made out of admirable stuff. He is perhaps the most conspicuous example in the United States of the finest and purest type of American manhood, that wins success by sheer merit and energy, and bears it with modesty, dignity and humanity. He has made his own fortune. Thousands of Americans have done this. Hundreds of this generation who were poor and obscure youths as Depew was thirty years ago are richer and more powerful now than he. But Depew's case differentiates itself from the mass in several ways. He has won success by sheer individual capacity and hard work. He has always been a laborer. He is a hired man now. True, he receives a princely salary, but he renders services for it not one prince in a century is capable of. He has made no money by stock jobbing or railroad wrecking. He hasn't much money any way as New York fortunes go. He has gained power, influence station luxury, by absolute individual vigor and sheer hard work. He is as genuine a workingman as any toiler in America, only he does a rare and fine and high quality of work, and is paid accordingly.

That is one peculiarity of his growth. Another of less importance but of some interest, is that his nature has matured and grown in quality as well as power. He has developed more naturally and easily than many born to them the graces of manner and breeding which adorn wealth and power. He has broadened in culture, in fact, in all the congeries of minor qualities which are included in the Gallic "know how." This ready adaptation reveals a quality of mind rare among those Americans who have traveled in a generation from poverty and obscurity to riches and dominion. The man who is the most popular host and the most desired guest in the greatest city in the country, has certainly many of the minor qualities which grace though they are not essential to the highest public station. Chester A Arthur had some of these qualities. It was said of him that he was the first president since Buchanan whose manners befitted his station. Good manners are not necessary to the president of a republic, but perhaps they adorn the person of a plain citizen, elevated from the lowest to the highest place more than that of a born princeling. Arthur's origin was as obscure as Andrew Johnson's or Garfield's. So is Depew's. But these two had the power of facile growth and adaptation which the others lacked. Chauncey Depew would establish in the White House a social atmosphere not felt there for half a century. This quality of superficial charm is more attractive in him because it accompanies a human sympathy and universal tact broad and fine enough to make itself felt through all classes with which he comes in direct or remote contact. It is a curious fact that the man most admired in New York drawing rooms is most popular in railroad yards and shops from New York to Buffalo. No railroad president has ever had the hold Depew has on all the employes of the Central. He would get the vote of every locomotive wiper and yardman. There has never been a strike on the road since he was its executive with full powers. He manages it with an art which secures the best results for the stockholders and the most perfect satisfaction among employes. This is the way he earns his princely salary. It is one of the ways too that have won for him more friends than any other man in private business station in the United States can count.

We submit that a man who has these achievements to his credit and who has the rare executive qualities and knowledge of human nature to which they testify, added to fine culture and large acquaintance with affairs, is fit to be president of the United States, if he is a railroad man. But as we said before Depew hasn't the ghost of a chance to be president. If he had THE OREGONIAN wouldn't indulge itself in telling these pleasant truths about him. For it wants a Western man for president.

The determination of the Chinese government to adopt a silver coinage is not only an epoch in the history of that unprogressive nation, but may have an important effect upon the financial history of the world. There has been only a limited circulation of coined money in China, portable wealth taking the form of precious metal in bars, jewels and valuable articles of small bulk. Exchanges have been made through notes of private banks and by a complicated system of barter. The adoption of the principle of coined money will doubtless stimulate exchanges in the Western sense and create a constantly increasing demand for the medium. The announced purpose of the government to establish a system of national banks will also create a demand for coined money as a basis of circulation and for government and banking reserve. Nobody knows how much silver there is at present in China nor how far it will go to satisfy this new demand. It is possible that it may prove inadequate and that China may again become a buyer and absorber of silver. It is believed that it was the continued and for a long time unlimited absorption of silver by China and other Eastern countries that consumed the vast product of the South American mines for three centuries and maintained the relative value of that metal. It was certainly the plain evidence given by the fate of Indian exchange that the capacity of the East to absorb silver was about exhausted that led Great Britain and Germany to adopt the policy of demonetization some twenty years ago. Should China return to the market as a buyer of silver, it is quite possible that its relative value and gold price may again appreciate. This will tend to help the United States out of its difficulties.

Now that Chicago has captured the world's fair, she wants to postpone it until 1893 and get a $10 000 000 appropriation from the government. The postponement is all very very well. Two years is too short a time to get so vast an enterprise under way and the year of a presidential election isn't a good one to hold a great fair, anyway. But the $10 000 000 is another matter. Chicago is going to make a great deal of money out of this fair, and it will come out of the pockets of the people who go there to see it. This is all right. She will give them the worth of their money. But it is a little too much to ask the people who don't go to see it to help Chicago bear the expense. This is what a government appropriation means. Money raised by taxation of any kind is taken out of the pockets of the people without their consent. Money thus taken should be very judiciously expended. Strictly it should be used only for necessary public expenses and for public benefits. A big circus is neither. It hasn't even the merits of a monument, which is sometimes a work of art, and so a public educational influence, and always a permanent addition to the national plant, so to speak. Chicago should not transcend the due limits of modesty in her demands.

At last we have something of interest from the Washington legislature. The kind and number of cigars that the various members smoke and the names of those who were brought up like disobedient schoolboys for reprimand for having transgressed the rule of the house which forbids anyone to smoke in the chamber, have been furnished. We have thought all along that if this legislature did not grow rash and adjourn before the time was ripe that its members or some of them would yet render themselves famous. All they wanted was time. Personal ambition can always be relied upon to furnish opportunity and though somewhat tardy in this case, owing no doubt to the native modesty of individuals the opportunity came. Colonel Ingersoll ought to spend a dollar telegraphing congratulations to the smokers of the Washington legislature and another to the members of that body, irrespective of their tobacco consuming capabilities who voted a chaplain a nuisance to a legislative body or words to that effect. Merit should be recognized and properly applauded, wherever found.

The Louisiana lottery dies hard. It has not yet given up all hope of getting a charter from North Dakota and it is making the most of its last days of power in New Orleans. Governor Warmoth was confirmed by the senate as collector of the port yesterday. The most ingenious scheme of the lottery company, however is to get a charter from the Choctaw nation in Indian territory. An act giving them such a charter was passed by the Choctaw legislature two weeks ago. This is a curious survival of the old claim of the Indian tribes to be considered as independent nations. It is difficult to see on what ground this Choctaw charter can claim validity in the United States. If the Choctaw nation is a territory its act can be disallowed by congress. If it is a foreign nation, its acts lose the benefit of the constitutional guarantee which makes the laws of one state good in every other. Certainly the Choctaw nation isn't a state. The lottery is building on a very sandy foundation in the Indian territory.

The democrats of the house have taken a leaf out of the book of their Montana brethren and propose to test the constitutionality of the new house rules by calling upon the supreme court to replace their members unseated under them. One of their schemes is to sue for salary, and another to apply to the supreme court for a mandamus. In the mean time the business of the house goes on under the constitutional rule making it the judge of the qualifications of its own members. It is not easy to see what good it will do the rejected democrats to collect their pay. That won't give them votes, unless the house chooses to count them. The talk of mandamus proceedings is all bosh. The supreme court won't issue a writ against the house of representatives. That point was settled in 1876. Anything less would be ineffective. Administrative officers may be compelled by a mandamus to pay money, but the house can't be compelled to count votes unless it chooses to do so.

This evening at the Tabernacle, at the corner of Tenth and Morrison streets a meeting of citizens will be held to take into consideration the matter of subscribing for two millions of the bonds of the Hunt railroad, to secure extension of the road to Portland. To what it has said heretofore on the subject, THE OREGONIAN has little to add. Upon the importance of the proposition it is useless to dwell since such importance is apparent. For assurance of success it is necessary that the undertaking be well started and strongly supported at the outset. Hence there should be this evening a general attendance of representative men.

Cold weather has ruined the Florida orange crop—at least by telegraph. The Delaware peach crop is yet to hear from, but there is plenty of time for it to be ruined the usual number of times between now and the first of May, without affecting in the least the number of baskets of luscious fruit that will find their way to market in July and August. The only thing affected will be the price, which in violation of nature's law expands instead of contracting under frost.

Somebody in Washington seems to wish to have it understood in Oregon that Representative Hermann will be responsible for the failure of The Dalles boat railway bill if this congress shall fail to pass it. He will be no more responsible than the rest of the delegation. They all know the bill has no chance of passage through both houses. The senate may pass it to please one member, but it would never do so if it were not sure of its defeat in the house. Legislation involving so much money and a new engineering principle cannot be enacted out of hand in a single session. If it ever becomes a law it will be after thorough consideration and careful debate, for which there is no time this winter. There ought to be no misunderstanding about this matter in Oregon. It is all very well for a senator to make personal capital out of the barren passage of the bill through the senate. That is legitimate enough as politics go. But he must not be allowed to make it at the expense of a representative of his own state at the other end of the capital, who has a re-election to look after as well as himself.

Having got down to the historic gently descending "Oregon mist", we can afford to commiserate the denizens of the storm beleaguered East who are struggling through snow drifts to-day in the face of a fierce Nor'easter. The worst storm of the season is reported on the Atlantic coast, from New York to Florida while Europe is entertaining a Dakota blizzard with what grace it can command on an extremely short notice.

"Mr Cleveland's friends," says the New York Sun, "have observed of late that he is growing fatter than ever. He never buttons his frock coat, as he did when he was in the White house but allows it to hang in long and ample folds, and as he walks to and from church with Mrs. Cleveland on Sunday mornings his lounging and shapeless figure is in sharp contrast to the slim and symmetrical form of the most popular woman in America. Mr Cleveland's hair is long and he has lost much of the neatness which characterized his appearance while in the White house."

SPIRIT OF THE NORTHWEST PRESS.

A BOOM FOR CALKINS.

Olympia Partisan: There is no doubt about Tacoma having been "conspicuously ignored in the distribution of offices." Judge Calkins is the best equipped man for United States senator in the new state of Washington. Why? Because he spent eight years in congress, is a lawyer has a national reputation, is a broad gauge statesman, and moreover looks like a senator should look. If he does not reach the senate next time he will scare the fellow who is elected pretty badly.

REPUBLICAN AID WILL BE WANTING.

Albany Democrat: Governor Pennoyer owes his election four years ago to the republicans. It would be folly for his friends to hope for his election again without the aid of a good many republicans. The outlook now furnishes promise that many republicans will be forthcoming in case he should be renominated of which, at present there seems to be no doubt. It is of almost daily occurence to hear some republican declare his purpose to support him.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE.

Roseburg Review: Hon H B Miller, of Josephine county is reported as having cultivated a nice little boom for congressman. Mr Miller is a republican and a shrewd politician and it is stated that he has claims on the party managers at Portland. This enlarges the aspirants for congressional honors in the republican ranks to four: Hermann, Leasure, Ellis and Miller.

GOOD PLACE TO DWELL.

Yakima Herald: A Montreal judge has decided that it is illegal to try and collect a debt anywhere but at the domicile of the debtor and that to ask on the street for money that is due constitutes an assault. THE HARMLESS CELESTIAL.

THE SUPREME COURT

Louisiana Roads Must Have Cars for Colored Travelers.

A CITIZEN CANNOT SUE A STATE

The Death Penalty Not the Severest Sentence a Murderer Can Receive—A Question of Finance Settled

WASHINGTON March 3.—The case of the Louisville New Orleans & Texas Pacific Railroad vs the state of Mississippi was decided by Justice Brewer to-day. The question involved was the power of the state to compel railroad companies to provide within the state accommodations for the two races. Judge Brewer holds that the state has such power.

MURDERERS TURNED LOOSE.

An opinion was also rendered allowing the applications of Joseph J Kelley and James H Savage for writs of habeas corpus. They were convicted in Arapahoe county Col of murder and sentenced to be hanged. The law under which they were sentenced was passed after commission of the crime and it was contended that it was ex post facto and therefore unconstitutional and void. In support of this contention it was alleged among other things that the law under which sentence was passed inflicted greater punishment than the law in force at the time of commission of the deed in that it added solitary confinement, forbade relatives and friends visiting the condemned and made it uncertain just when the convicted men would be hanged, thereby putting them in fear that each moment might be their last.

The court through Chief Justice Fuller holds the provisions as to the punishment of the condemned men ex post facto and void. Solitary confinement he says is decidedly an extra punishment and would have a decided tendency to make men furious and weak minded. It is therefore held to be the duty of the court to discharge the prisoners but as there is no question they were lawfully convicted, the sentence only being irregular the warden of the penitentiary is directed to notify the attorney general of the state of the time of release so that he may immediately re-arrest and bring them to trial once more.

Justice Brewer vigorously dissented from this opinion. The substantial punishment under each statute he said was death by hanging, and the difference in details was in his opinion too trifling, upon which to base an opinion that would turn two red handed murderers loose upon society.

CITIZEN CANNOT SUE HIS STATE.

The court also rendered an opinion in the case of Bernard Hans plaintiff in error vs the state of Louisiana. Hans is the owner of a considerable quantity of Louisiana consolidated bonds. When these were issued the state made a provision for a special tax to meet the interest and principal, and declared the bonds to create a contract between the state and the bondholders, which should not be impaired. The constitution adopted in 1879 however, partly repudiated this agreement and directed that the revenue from the special tax be diverted to defray the expenses of the state government. Hans brought suit to have the new constitution declared invalid in so far as it impaired the contract. The state set up the plea that it could not be sued by one of its own citizens without its consent and the circuit court deciding in favor of the state, the case came here.

The supreme court affirms the finding of the circuit court and in reference to the exemption of a sovereign state from prosecution at the suit of individuals says: "The legislative department of a state represents its policy and its will and is called upon to preserve justice and judgment and hold inviolate the obligations of the state. To deprive the legislature of the power of judging what the honor and safety of the state may require even at the expense of temporary failure to discharge public debts would be attended with greater evils than such failure could cause. It would, in fact, deprive the state of that sovereignty and independence in the management of its affairs which are essential to its autonomy, and which are always understood to be its prerogative by all private parties that deal with it." It is said that from $10 000,000 to $12 000 000 is involved in the case.

The court also reversed the judgment in the case of the state of North Carolina and Roberts auditor, against Temple for the same reasons stated in the Hans case. This case also involved several millions.

A FIDELITY BANK CASE.

The court also rendered an opinion in an important bank case growing out of the well known failure of the Fidelity National bank of Cincinnati. The suit was that of David Armstrong receiver against the American Exchange National bank of Chicago. The Fidelity bank drew a draft for $100 000 on the Chemical National bank of New York payable to the American Exchange National bank Chicago. This was given to Kershaw & Co Chicago who placed it to their credit in the American Exchange National. Harper, vice president of the Fidelity was using his bank's money in his famous wheat deal, and had issued various drafts without consideration. When he saw the deal was hopeless he wired the Chemical bank to stop payment. The Fidelity failed and on the refusal of the receiver to allow the claims of the American Exchange National for documents it cashed in good faith, the bank sued the receiver. The lower court gave judgment in favor of the American Exchange National, and this court affirms the judgment, holding that the bank was an innocent purchaser for value, and ordering the receiver to allow the claim.

THE APOSTLE PAUL TESTIFIES.

He Was a Consistent Mugwump He Says—The Civil Service Scandal.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—In the investigation of the charges against the civil service commission to-day Frank Hatton, of the Post who, in the absence of Everts conducted the prosecution, called attention to the remaining charges against the commission. These were that the commission, since its organization to the present time by the manipulation of rules and regulations brought about results in violation of the spirit and letter of the law that by collusion with the department officers applicants secured places with little reference to qualifications that relatives of officers of the commission had been attached to the commission, gaining knowledge of the secrets of the commission privileges denied senators and representatives, without compensation and in direct violation of law that offenses which resulted in the dismissal of officers belonging to one political party were condoned when committed by officers of another political party.

In regard to the first charge, Hatton said Representative Butterworth wanted it amended so as to find how it was that under a republican administration nine tenths of those appointed to the civil service were republicans and under a democratic administration the same number were democrats. The scope of the amendment would bring the matter to the attention of the committee when it discussed the general workings of the civil service system.

Commissioner Thompson, in reply to a question by Hatton said the civil service commission had not taken any steps to secure Shidy's removal from the census office where he is now employed, and he (Thompson) did not propose to take any further steps for or against him.

Ex Postmaster Paul, of Milwaukee, was then called. He was appointed postmaster by Cleveland in 1885, and at that time was vice-president of the civil service association in the city. Of forty five resignations in the Milwaukee postoffice during his term only one asked for a rest. Politics had nothing to do with the question of these resignations. Proceeding to the question of the civil service examining board in the postoffice, Paul said the duties of the board were discharged entirely independent of himself as postmaster. Paul said that he never had assisted advised or controlled Shidy in the discharge of his duties at the commission. He said he was wholly misled by the cunning and want of veracity of Shidy. It was Shidy's blundering records that caused all the trouble although he did not think it was done with criminal intent on his part but his blunders were innocent. Paul said he never had access to the records of the local examining board.

Mexican Slave Labor in Texas.

WASHINGTON March 3.—Complaint has again been made to the treasury department that Mexican laborers are again being imported into Texas for work on the Texas & Pacific Railroad in violation of the alien contract labor law. It is said that in order to evade the law no contract is made with the men until after they reach United States territory. An immigrant inspector will probably be ordered to Texas to investigate the matter.

Washington School Indemnity Land.

WASHINGTON March 3.—[Special Telegram.]—Assistant Secretary Chandler of the interior department, to-day filed a decision affirming the ruling of the land office rejecting the application of Cornelius Miller to make timber culture entry in section 30 township 11 range 40 in the Walla Walla district Washington. He held that the land in question had been selected by the territorial authorities as school indemnity lands.

CALVIN'S CRUEL CREED OUTWORN.

Talmage Wants a Brand-New Confession, that Doesn't Burn the Babies.

NEW YORK March 3.—[Special Telegram.]—Yesterday being Sunday, Dr Talmage's parishioners doubtless kept their thoughts of his morning's sermon to themselves as far as possible. They were surprised at some of his statements, but they did not seem so strong when delivered from the pulpit as they did this morning when read in cold type in the newspapers. To-day however their pastor's sermon is being warmly commented on and severely criticised, according as it meets each one's personal views. In his sermon speaking of the proposed revision of the Presbyterian creed, Talmage said: "Instead of revision I want substitution. I was sorry to have the question disturbed at all. The creed did no hinder me from offering the pardon and comfort of the gospel to all men and the Westminster confession has not interfered with me one minute, but now that the chandeliers have been turned on the imperfections of that creed, everything is imperfect.

"Let us put our old creeds respectfully aside to get a brand new one. It is impossible that people who lived hundreds of years ago should fashion an appropriate creed for our time. John Calvin was a great and good man but he died 320 years ago. The best centuries of bible study have come since then and explorers have done their work. You might as well have the world go back and stick to what Robert Fulton knew about steamboats and reject the subsequent improvements in navigation.

"The man who believes in the damnation of infants himself deserves to lose Heaven. When some of you grown up people go out of the world your doubtful destiny will be an embarrassment to the ministers officiating at your obsequies who will have to be cautious not to hurt surviving friends but when the darling children go there will be no ifs, buts or guesses. I move for a creed for all our denominations made out of Scripture quotations pure and simple that would be impregnable against infidelity. The denomination that can rise up to that will be the church of the millennium. It will swallow up all the others and be the one that will be the bride when the bridegroom cometh."

THEIR CURVES VERY INTRICATE.

The Quarrel Between the Baseball Players a Masked Advertisement.

CHICAGO March 3.—An astonishing communication was made public to-day by General Secretary Brunell, of the Players National League. The surprise is in the apparent disclosure, more or less complete that the supposed animosity and rivalry between the players' organization and the National League is largely in the nature of a blind to the public. The whole thing in a nutshell would appear to be that, as rumored at intervals since the famous split, the baseball men understand the art of forming trusts and pool making, precisely as practiced in other business enterprises. Secretary Brunell's letter is addressed to President Young of the National League. It gives a synopsis of the players' schedule, showing the dates when Eastern clubs play in the West and vice versa, and further says:

"The outline is sent to the National League so that it can, should it so choose, avoid conflicting with our clubs and may I also suggest that the National League adopt a resolution permitting its clubs to play against those of the Players League before and after the championship season. Such permission being granted it would also be necessary for the National League to repeal its American resolution which boycotts all clubs playing against those of our organization as well as any clubs which may play with a club which has played against a players club."

CLEVELAND Ohio, March 3.—Delegates to the league base ball meeting nearly all arrived to-day. The schedule committee had a meeting to-day to prepare a report for a regular meeting for to-morrow, but nothing could be learned as to the dates assigned. Chairman Soden said he had prepared ten club schedule, as had also his colleagues Spalding and Nimick.

President Young of the National League was to-night shown a communication from Secretary Brunell of the Players League. He said the National League would not consider the proposition to allow clubs to play with boycotted clubs. Concerning conflicting dates he had nothing to say. He claimed the schedule committee had prepared their report regardless of the brotherhood.

NEW YORK March 3.—The case of the Metropolitan Exhibition Company against John M. Ward was begun in the supreme court this morning. There was a notable absence of baseball men. Counsel for the Metropolitan Exhibition Company asked the court to place the case for trial during the present month. Judge Lawrence took the papers and said he would advise counsel in a day or two.

THE WORLD'S FAIR IN 1893.

Columbus Did Not Reach America Until Autumn—Editor Medill's Idea.

NEW YORK March 3.—Joseph Medill editor of the Chicago Tribune, is in the city. In an interview he says: "Chicago will raise $10 000 000 for the world's fair in 1893 and the national government should appropriate as large a sum to assist us. We would have been willing, had New York won the fair, that congress should appropriate as large a sum as that city itself put up. This is to be a national affair and it should receive as much help from the national government as from the city where it is held. The Paris exposition had the aid of the government, in addition to private subscriptions. We want the national government, states and cities to help us to make our fair a success. The Paris exposition cost $15 000 000. Over here the cost will be nearly double that sum.

"We don't want to say we can get ready by 1892, but we can get ready in three years if congress helps us. It would be ridiculous to open the fair a period six months earlier in the year than that corresponding with which Columbus discovered America. In May and July 1492, he did not know that he would get the necessary assistance to make the voyage. He did not start until August and did not land until October 12. The fair should not be opened before the anniversary of the date of discovery. October is too late in our climate to open the fair and it should be postponed until say May, 1893. We should have a big celebration in October, 1892, and we would want Chauncey M. Depew to come out and make us a speech."

THE LOTTERY LEGISLATURE.

A Majority of North Dakota Solons Are Owned by the Louisiana Company.

BISMARCK N D March 3.—Mayor Bentley has sent out a circular saying that M A Dauphin, of the Louisiana lottery is here that it is believed the lottery bill will be reintroduced in the legislature to-morrow or soon afterwards, and that there is danger it will pass.

WASHINGTON March 3.—Indian Agent Bennett, located in Indian territory has reported to the Indian bureau that it has just come to his knowledge that an act was passed by the legislative council of the Choctaw nation about two months ago incorporating the Choctaw Orphan Asylum Lottery Company. The agent reports that great secrecy was maintained concerning the act, and it was with the utmost difficulty that he succeeded in securing a copy of it.

ST PAUL, March 3.—A Pioneer Press Bismarck special says: The senate judiciary committee to-day reported back the bill requiring non resident newspaper publishers to appoint a real deputy agent to receive service at law. The bill is evidently intended as a stab at papers which were opposed to the lottery scheme. The majority report favored the bill, but Senators Barlow and Dobbs represented a vigorous adverse minority report, in which they score the lottery bill and its advocates mercilessly. This minority report was laid on the table and a resolution adopted expunging it from the record.

AN OUTCAST FROM THE CHURCH.

The Priest Found Dying in Philadelphia Identified.

PHILADELPHIA March 3.—Investigation into the mysterious death of Rev Peter H. Feron mentioned in these dispatches yesterday discloses the fact that he has been an outcast from the church for a number of years. Intemperance being the cause of his downfall. He came to this city two or three days ago and visited a dozen physicians in an effort to get morphine.

It is understood he finally got one doctor who gave him a hypodermic injection to relieve his horrors. After this he drank heavily and subsequently fell in the street, where he was found by the police and taken to a hotel. From there he was removed to a hospital. Feron comes of a good English family.

Billiard Champion Slosson's Methods.

NEW YORK March 3.—George Slosson the winner of the billiard tournament in an interview to-day said: "Schaefer can not beat me to a draw or nurse me. He does not understand the game any better than I do. He plays masse shots ten times where I play three but I make mine. Some of his masses are unnecessary, and I accomplish the same result in a different manner. He cannot beat me on a round the table shot, and I can beat him on single cushion shots. My style of play is homely but effective, while Schaefer has got to have a feeling of inspiration, with no one to push him, in order to win. Moreover, the man who plays with the wrist is at a disadvantage with one who plays with the forearm. It is the carelessness and apparent abandon of Schaefer's play that makes people think he is invincible. I say it is a good thing for billiards that he was beaten. I am in favor of the best man winning. After the Chicago tournament I shall quit playing."

GATHERED FROM COURT RECORDS.

Found Not Guilty—Brought Here for Trial—Police Judge and the Justices—Docket—Etc

In the criminal court yesterday afternoon James Coleman, who has long been sick in the county jail, and Frank Murphy, went to trial for alleged larceny in the store of Andrew Roberts on January 11. Their confederate, George Chambers, pleaded guilty several weeks ago, and was sent to prison for three years. After his sentence he begged permission to address the court, when he declared that the men on trial this afternoon had no hand in the crime. The jury entrusted with the welfare of Murphy and Coleman went out about 4:30 and at 5:10 reported their verdict, which was "not guilty." They were highly elated at the result of their trial, and will be urgently advised by their attorney to leave town.

BROUGHT HERE FOR TRIAL.

Sheriff Birdsey, Jackson county's wide-awake sheriff, has arrived with W. B. Roberts and his son, J. A. Roberts, who are wanted for embezzlement on complaint of William Dunbar. The evidence against them is in a chaotic state so far, but will be sifted down to facts by the time of the trial.

MINOR COURT NOTES.

G. A. Phillips and Ella M. Babcock, H. Cohn and J. Gorham, Lee You Too and In Sue Gaim have been granted licenses to wed.

Nicholas Whitman, the father-in-law of Mr Harry Hochenstein, was yesterday declared insane by the county court and committed to confinement in the state lunatic asylum. He talks irrationally and gives other evidence of imbecility. The old man is 70 years old and is in his dotage. It is a sad sight to see so old and helpless a man sent away from the sight of his children to this a public place of refuge.

In the Municipal Courts

The session of the police court yesterday afternoon was unnecessarily protracted, much to the discomfiture of the judge, clerk and officers of the court. Some lawyers, if given the slightest encouragement, and even without, will persist in consuming several hours of valuable time in trying a petty and altogether insignificant case.

The case of John Steiner was one of those in question. He was charged with trespassing in his father-in-law's house, the St. Paul house, and had to pay a $10 fine.

John Barry who took the liberty to follow a young lady several blocks applying endearing epithets, was fined $50 for his fun. The young lady was badly scared and sought refuge in a drug store.

Fred Rhodes was sent up for thirty days on a charge of vagrancy, and Charles Clay, charged with the same offense, was let go.

Ah Sing is the name of a Chinaman, who entered the residence of L. Hirsch without invitation Sunday evening. He was arraigned on a charge of burglary, and was bound over before the grand jury under bonds in the sum of $500. He is apparently half witted, and his imbecility may save him a term in the penitentiary.

The usual drunks and other petty offenders were fined according to the degree of their crimes.

DR. CHAN LEE GETS LEFT

The case of the Chinese doctor, Chan Lee, against You Kee Hung, which has been hanging fire in Justice Tuttle's court for several weeks, was yesterday decided in favor of the defendant.

It will be remembered that You Kee Hung, who had been taking the doctor's herbs and pellets for a chronic disease, had the latter arrested for obtaining money under false pretenses. The doctor agreed to cure him for a stated sum, but failed to do so. That case was given to the grand jury.

Dr. Chan Lee then turned around and sued You Kee Hung to recover $181 20 the amount alleged to be due for professional services, although he had previously agreed to perform the cure for $30, which sum the defendant claimed was paid in full. It was this suit that was decided yesterday.

The case has stirred up bad blood between rival factions of high binders, and another gory riot may occur.

THE ALBINA ESCAPADE.

The charge against Engineer Bohls of the steamer Cyclone, of kidnapping Mrs. Reedy was dismissed yesterday in Justice Biles's court as the latter claimed that she deserted her husband and children to accompany Bohls willingly and without coercion.

Both Bohls and Mrs. Reedy were thereupon arrested on a charge of lewd cohabitation. They were required to furnish cash bail in the sum of [illegible] each and the cases were set for hearing at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

STEINER HAS MORE MUSIC TO FACE.

John Steiner who was fined $10 in the police court yesterday afternoon for lounging about the St. Paul house contrary to the orders of his father-in-law Mr Martzloff the proprietor, has a charge of threatening to kill to meet in Justice Biles's court this afternoon. Constable Keegan armed with a warrant, took him in charge immediately after he liquidated his fine in the police court. The same father-in-law is the complainant in this case.

After Ten Years of Almost Post Deafness John Wansley is Cured in Two Days

Three Operations by Dr Aborn the Successful Eye, Ear, Catarrh, Throat and Lung Physician, Imparts to Him Perfect Hearing

READ HIS SWORN AFFIDAVIT.

Portland Or Feb 25 1890

JOHN WANSLEY, being duly sworn, does depose and say

I hereby certify that for eight or ten years I have been afflicted with deafness, I also have had the catarrh of the head in its worst form and I applied to Dr Aborn Fourth and Morrison street, two days ago for treatment and at that time I was so deaf in both ears that I could not hear the ticking of a watch when placed against my head. By three treatments Dr. Aborn has to my great astonishment, so perfectly restored my hearing that I can now hear a watch tick about three feet distant from my head and his treatment caused me no pain or the least inconvenience. My catarrh, also, which was so troublesome has been greatly benefited by two treatments. I certainly feel almost dazed at such a quick restoration of my hearing. May the Doctor live long to relieve the afflicted of their suffering, is the prayer of his grateful patient.

Mortar-Spotted Skin

Accurately describes psoriasis, the second great skin disease. Think of shedding a quart of scales each day, of a skin cracked, bleeding, burning and itching, almost beyond human endurance, hair lifeless or gone. Suffering hardly to be appreciated. Is not this a difficult skin and scalp disease to cure? And yet CUTICURA has cured thousands of just such cases.

PORTLAND-JAPAN LINE.

Three Tea Steamers to Be Placed on This Route.

A GREAT TRADE FOR THIS PORT

All Preliminaries Arranged—The Contract Executed and Approved.

THE BIG HOTEL ABOUT FINISHED

Was the Boy Poisoned?—Change in the Weather—Young Man in Trouble—The Oregon Humane Society Meeting

A contract providing for a monthly line of steamships between Portland and Asiatic ports was executed and approved yesterday in San Francisco by officials of the Union Pacific and H Frank Upton, of Kobe, Japan. Negotiations leading to this arrangement have been in progress for several months, and about three weeks ago Mr Upton came across from Japan to close up the transaction. The arrangements were settled between General Freight Agent B Campbell, of the Union Pacific, and Mr Upton here and they went to San Francisco on the last steamer to submit them to Mr C S Mellen, general manager of the Union Pacific The terms were satisfactory and were approved by Mr Mellen at once.

The first steamer will arrive here in June with tea of the new crop, and the others will follow in due time. The steamers are first-class iron ships of British build, and can be operated very economically The first to arrive will be the Zambesi, of 3000 tons. She was here about a year ago and took away a cargo of flour, etc. The second steamer will be the Cashgar, of 2600 tons They are both furnished with new steel boilers and will make the trip from Yokohama here in about thirteen or fourteen days, and the trip back in sixteen to eighteen days. The third steamer is not named yet. The ships will carry flour and Eastern manufactures machinery and cotton goods principally from this port There is a large amount of flour shipped from this port now, and the steamer sent here by the Canadian Pacific has not of late been able to take all which offered. The Canadian Pacific steamers have not been able of late to carry nearly all the freight offered them

The inauguration of this steamship line giving Portland direct communication with the teeming millions of Asia is a very important matter for this city, and marks the beginning of a new era of progress and prosperity The trade between this port and Asia will thrive and increase and become a vast business and will bring wealth to those who have had the pluck and sagacity to inaugurate it.

MOVING TOWARDS COMPLETION.

How Rapidly Work is Going on in The Portland.

Work is progressing rapidly towards completion in every department of The Portland and the mammoth and elegant hotel will be opened to the public in the latter days of this month. Manager Leland has telegraphed to have his cooks, waiters, chambermaids, etc., start from the East on the 18th inst. The building is ready for occupancy down to the second floor, and about half the rooms on that floor are carpeted and the furniture in. Mr Gillixson says he will finish laying carpets on the main floor within two weeks after it is turned over to him. It will soon be ready for him The dining rooms have been cleared out and the floors oiled and the parlors are about finished as the frescoers are moving out and will begin putting the finishing touches on the office to-morrow The ranges, steam tables and other fittings of the kitchen are about ready for business and the cold storage rooms for meats, milk and butter fish, etc are ready for use. The arrangements for lighting the building are completed, and the electric lights were turned on yesterday and will be tested for acceptance Wednesday The lower hall is crowded with furniture waiting for the rooms to be cleared out to put it in The elevators will soon be running and then a trip to the sixth or seventh story will not be such a task as it is to climb the back stairs. The main staircases are completed, but not open for travel as yet.

MUST EXAMINE THE STOMACH.

Inquest on the Remains of George Becker Begun Yesterday

Coroner DeLin yesterday afternoon empaneled a jury of six and proceeded to hold an inquest on the remains of George Becker, the young man whose peculiar death has aroused suspicions of poisoning.

Becker died at an early hour Sunday morning, apparently from the effects of liquor which he drank the evening before to allay a bad cold The physicians who were called in stated that all the symptoms pointed to poisoning It was this opinion of the medics that suggested a thorough investigation regarding the cause of his death

The witnesses examined yesterday were Mrs Sheridan, mother of the deceased, Mr Sheridan, his stepfather Officer Blanchard Mr Crawford and Mr Stewart The investigation was then continued until Thursday at 10 o'clock in the forenoon by which time Drs Rand and Wheeler who were directed to hold an autopsy will make a report They will examine the stomach so as to determine whether or not Becker took poison, and if so what it was.

The coroner's jury can arrive at no verdict until they receive the report of the physicians

THE COLD WEATHER GONE

The Rain Brings Gladness to the Heart of Every One—Report East of the Mountains

Overcoats have now given place to rubbers and umbrellas. The cold weather is thought to be a thing of the past—until next winter—although no one will venture to say so in as many words for there is no telling how it will turn out So many strange and unexpected changes happening of late contradictory to the prophecies of the most sanguine weather prophets have had a tendency to make all those who [illegible] the [illegible] in the weather clerk and meekly resign themselves if necessary, to the inevitable

Taking it all through the rain yesterday was greeted with gladness by everyone. The merchant is thankful for it will fill his pockets with gold by causing the earth to yield her fruit in abundance. Men engaged in commerce hail with delight the rain, because it means high water which event will prove a blessing to navigation as the river at present is very low Pedestrians and non interested persons of both sexes are happy, because they would rather see it rain than snow, or to have cold weather for it is known when the "heavens weep king winter's doom for the time is sealed.

"This will knock the ice in the Columbia and restore river traffic said Captain Troup as he stood looking from a window in his Ash street office upon the river and the descending rain, which made a "goose flesh" surface on the otherwise placid water Captain Buchanan, of the Ione returning from his regular trip to the mouth of the Willamette last evening proved that Captain Troup's surmises were correct, for he said "The ice at and below Vancouver is all running out and by to-morrow I think the river will be open At any rate I intend to tackle the La Camas and Westougal route to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock The Ione returned from making connections with the Vancouver stage and had many passengers If the river is open, the Union Pacific will put on their regular Cascades boat

Portland is the only place in Willamette valley where the rainfall is copious As will be seen by the following report the weather along the line of the Union Pacific is very moderate Bonneville 34 Hood River 35 Dalles 34 Umatilla, 35 Wallula 40 Walla Walla 40 Dayton, 28 Pomeroy 30 Riparia 28 Colfax 32 Pendleton, 30 North Powder, 30 Wilbur, 30 Huntington 30.

PORTLAND IS UP WITH THE TIMES.

The Gurney Cab Service to Be Started Up To Day

Portland will to-day furnish another evidence of metropolitan life when for the first time in this city the Gurney cab will be seen rolling over the pavements. This vehicle has become very popular wherever the service is in operation and it is unquestionably one of the greatest modern improvements in the line of transportation facilities. These cabs have been introduced into all of the larger cities of the coast, and they have given entire and universal satisfaction San Francisco was the last city to get the service and Portland will get it to-day

The cab was invented by J Theodore Gurney, who is manager of the system, about eight years ago He came to the city several days ago and has opened an office on Morrison street, where he has placed in charge E. H. Lohman as local manager and L. J. Stephenson and George E. Grant, jr assistants All of the gentlemen are from Oakland

The Gurney cab is a two-wheeled concern, with a door opening from behind This is claimed to be a great advantage in that it protects dresses from being soiled and often prevents accidents It is a beautifully finished vehicle costing $225 more than the English or French cab Those brought to Portland are especially made for damp weather, being finished with steel paneling while the seats are upholstered with French mohair and plush.

The cabs are suitable for balls, weddings receptions and theater parties, and they are used very extensively for making calls They are large enough to carry four persons.

The great advantage they offer to the public is cheapness of local transportation the rates being very low They are run at all hours of the night and the tariff is always the same in fact just as uniform as street car fares

Another feature that will be appreciated by traveling men particularly is the interchange of traffic A ticket issued in one city will be honored in any other city where the system is in operation

Mr Gurney says that he will start up with six cabs to-day, and increase the service by car loads of six as the demand grows The company will buy their own ground erect their buildings and have their own horses.

TRIBULATIONS OF A FAST YOUNG MAN.

George F Royce Arrested for Obtaining Money on a Draft Which was Not Honored

Officers Gritzmacher and Day yesterday morning arrested a young man named George F Royce on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses from Z T Wright.

Young Royce, who was formerly in the employ of the Terminal Company has been cutting quite a swell of late and it is unnecessary to state that it required some money to do it. Royce was not long in devising means for replenishing his exchequer He wrote out a draft on a New York bank for $25 which he had Mr Wright cash for him on the 18th of last month Although Mr Wright did not know him, the manner of Royce impressed him favorably, and as the sum was small he let him have it.

Last Saturday Royce again rushed into Mr Wright's office with another draft This aroused Mr Wright's suspicions and he wired to Royce's mother, who lives in Albion N Y In reply she said that she honored no more drafts from her son George. The arrest followed In the police court yesterday afternoon the case was continued until to day

OREGON HUMANE SOCIETY

Regular Monthly Meeting of Executive Committee—An Interesting Session

The regular monthly meeting of the executive committee of the Oregon Humane Society was held Saturday evening at the Unitarian chapel, President T L Eliot in the chair

After considerable routine business was transacted, a letter from Mr George H Andrews, of Mount Tabor, was read encouraging the work of the society, and enclosing a check for $15, to create fifteen annual memberships in the society from the Mount Tabor school district

A letter was also received from Mr Byron Z Holmes of this city enclosing a check for a handsome sum, to be used in the furtherance of the society's work. This is the second time the society has been remembered by this gentleman in a most substantial manner, and a hearty vote of thanks was extended him

The committee on arrangements for the coming anniversary early next month, reported progress, through its chairman Miss Ruth R. Rounds. The programme, which this committee are endeavoring to arrange, will make this anniversary occasion one of exceeding interest to all who deem the cause of humanity to animals worthy of support.

THAT SALMON LAW AGAIN.

The Text of the Statute—How Fishermen Evade It—All Violations Are to Be Prosecuted

Notwithstanding that the close season for salmon began on the 1st of the month salmon is still to be found in the markets. A prominent fish dealer furnishes the following in regard to the matter being a copy of the salmon laws and some remarks upon its workings under the rulings of the courts and fish commissioners

"It shall not be lawful to take, or fish for any salmon, in the Columbia river or its tributaries by any means whatsoever, in any year hereafter during the months of March, August and September and any person or persons catching salmon in violation of the provisions of this section, or purchasing salmon so unlawfully caught, shall, upon conviction thereof be fined in a sum of not less than $500, no more than $1000 for the first offense and for each and every subsequent offense upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than $1000 to which may be added, at the discretion of the court, imprisonment in the county jail for a term not exceeding one year

We have in the Columbia river and its tributaries what is known as the chinook salmon, the silver side salmon the blue back salmon and the steel head salmon All four of these salmon are used by the cannerymen and shippers The chinook commence running in February and last until along in August and the blue backs usually commence running about the 15th of May and stop in July The steel head salmon generally begin to run in October and last all winter There is, however a steel head salmon that runs with the chinook and blue backs in the summer

A few words in regard to the taking of these salmon in March August and September The fish commissioners claim that a steel head salmon is not a salmon and that they can be caught during the close season, and that the dealers can buy and sell I have been informed that some of the courts have decided that steel heads are not salmon and I have been informed that the same courts hold that if a fisherman is fishing for steel heads and catches a chinook they do not violate the law Let us see how this will work I got from three fishermen last week in February in six days 3720 pounds of chinook, and 63 pounds of steel heads Have the fishermen a perfect right to fish for the 63 pounds of steelheads at a sacrifice of 3720 pounds of chinook? The fish commissioners say they will prosecute the fishermen, or the dealer if they catch or buy any chinook The natural inference is the fishermen will throw away the 3720 pounds of chinook to sell the 63 pounds of steelhead There seems to be something wrong here or in other words a screw loose It simply means to destroy a great quantity of chinook salmon or it will be handled secretly in violation of the law

The only way I can see of regulating this law is for the fisherman to have in large letters on his nets Chinook salmon forbidden to come in this net. This will settle the matter for all time to come. As a result there will be a great deal of frozen chinook salmon shipped during this month from Portland

A few days ago the statement was made in THE OREGONIAN that the fish commissioners proposed to vigorously enforce the salmon law and all violators, if caught, will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law

AT THE THEATERS

"The Great Metropolis" at the Marquam Grand Last Night—"Leah" at Cordray's

"The Great Metropolis" was given at the Marquam Grand last evening for the first time in this city Considering the state of weather we have been enjoying for a day or two, the audience might be called large. Without following the plot of the play which has already appeared in these columns it is necessary to give a clear description of the performance.

"The Great Metropolis" is hardly of the "villain still pursued her" stripe nor is it strictly speaking a society drama. To say it is a nautical yarn would not reach up to its hight. It contains enough material for three or four plays, with plenty of elements Aside from the first and second acts necessary to unfold the motive clearly the play is a series of tableaux strongly conceived and presented. The Sandy Hook life saving station the wreck of the Flying Fish the High Bridge scene and the attempt at murder on the East river form the strong features of the play Last night however the wreck scene was spoiled by an accident which befel one of the wings and caused it to fall upon the stage

The lines are evidently written up to fit the tableaux although they are by no means subordinate to them The humor is supplied by Benjamin Bert a real estate agent, cast in the same mold as our old friend Colonel Sellers Harry Bell, well known in Portland makes a good deal out of the part. His song, "Too Good to be True was loudly encored, and proved beyond doubt that the topical song is one of his cards. As a burlesque upon the real estate agent, Mr Bell makes a success of it. Mr Johnstone is a manly Jack Holt has a swinging sailor like way about him which seems to take with the audience If Percy Marsh as Walter Mawbray cannot play the villain without trying our notions of the stage villain are all wrong He doesn't half try, and yet he makes one of the most repulsive scoundrels one can recall In saying this we hardly know whether we are complimenting his art or otherwise

Miss Eleanor Barry a love making in the role of Nell Carr was just a little too nervous She has a speaking pair of eyes, and uses them well but a trifle more languor and quietude thrown into some of the scenes would be advantageous. Miss Clyde Heron as Gertrude was warmly received by her old friends She did not have a very pleasant part but that she fully met its demands was apparent to all. Whatever there were of honors last night she earned her share It is a pity that to such a conscientious and evidently capable actor as William Morris fell a part which puts him under a ban throughout the five acts. The role of a fool is not an easy one to fill but Mr Morris acquitted himself well

The Great Metropolis will be repeated to-night

AT CORDRAY'S THEATER.

"Leah the Forsaken" Charles Cheltnam's well known tragic play was given at Cordray's musee theater last night before a large audience Miss Essie Tittell in the title role despite her years and limited experience did a very creditable piece of work. The character is suited to her style, but its requirements are somewhat beyond her strength and the wonder is that she can bear the continued strain of the part so well as she does. She failed to give some of the scenes the quiet intensity that would have become them better than the heavy power with which she tries to clothe them but the celebrated curse scene, though demanding a most more strength than she is able to give it earned her a hearty and merited call before the curtain.

Miss Lillian Lawrence as Madaleua was rather mechanical, and did not fully enter into the spirit of the part.

Mr R. E. French in the part of Rudolf was handicapped by his faulty enunciation though he strove hard to overcome it and Mr George Berry was far from realizing the proper conception of Nathan Mr John Low was careful and painstaking as Father Hermann, and Mr C M Gray amusing as Ludwig

The scenic effects were good, but would have appeared to better advantage with more careful handling and a better management of the stage lights

"Leah, the Forsaken," for the remainder of the week

EAST SIDE SCHOOL MATTERS.

Annual Meeting of the Taxpayers of District No 21 Last Night.

Reports of the Directors and Clerk—A 3½ Mill Tax Levied—Resolutions Adopted—Harmonious Proceedings—Etc

The annual school meeting for District 21, East Portland was held last night in the Central building and after reading the minutes of the previous meeting a year ago the call for the meeting was read. The school clerk then read the report of the directors which was as follows

DIRECTORS' REPORT

In accordance with custom at all previous annual school meetings we present a summary of the work of the past year in the schools and submit recommendations for the coming year

For the first two months a superintendent was employed at $133 33⅓ per month and since his resignation the schools have been ably conducted by the principals of which we have one female and two males.

We have employed in the schools two male teachers who are paid on an average of $105 per month and twenty three female teachers whose salaries average $65 per month

On the night of Nov 2, 1889 the Stephens schoolhouse was burned down which made it necessary to rent rooms to provide for the grades in that building We secured rooms at a cost of $20 per month Grant Engine Company kindly consented to allow us the free use of their assembly room for which the board returns thanks in behalf of the district. Three rooms were finished during the year one in the North Central and two in Stephens schoolhouses We made other improvements, and paid bonds, all of which will appear in the clerk's detailed report.

The district owns property as follows Central building and grounds $38 000 Stephens ground, $10 000 North Central building and ground $20 000 insurance money $12,000, cash in the treasury, $6 600. Total, $88 000.

From the late James B Stephens the district received a block and one half valued at $12 000 which is in litigation at present the district paying its proportionate share of the expense A yearly rental of $750 is derived from this property

The bonded indebtedness of this district is $10 500 on which $1560 coupons and interest charges are paid in August in each year At this rate these bonds will be liquidated in six years.

For a detailed financial exhibit showing cost of fuel, water etc we refer to the clerk's report

It will be necessary to put up a new school house in Stephens addition costing about $19 000 add four rooms to the North Central, costing about $8000, and build a two room schoolhouse at Sunnyside costing about $3000 The Sunnyside people propose to donate half a block valued at $3000 if the district will put up a building of two rooms and pay not to exceed $300 toward paying for the grounds In order to carry out these plans we recommend that a three and one-half (3½) mills tax be levied and that the directors be authorized to issue bonds to the amount of $10 000

HE RAN OFF WITH A "TWENTY"

About 1 o'clock last night as a party of ardent lovers of the god of Bacchus were having a social time in the Red Front saloon on North First street a stranger named Bowers who was evidently a verdant harvester from the country threw a handful of silver on the bar with the boast that he had as much money as any of them Among the silver was a twenty dollar gold piece which was espied by one of the men who had stepped up to see the granger flaunt his affluence in the face of poverty. He snatched the gold piece remarking that he would take care of it and with that disappeared through the door Bowers gave chase but the thief was gone The police were notified some time after and it is needless to add that by this time [illegible] himself if that is possible still more careful Bowers don't deserve much sympathy

ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING.

Portland Heights Gets the $20,000 Appropriation After a Struggle.

Full Texts of the Reports of the Directors and School Clerk Allen—The Tax Agreed Upon at 4¼ Mills for the Ensuing Year

Pursuant to call the annual meeting of the taxpayers of school district No 1 was held last evening at the courthouse The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock by Chairman D P Thompson. About 100 people were present including the full board of directors City Superintendent of Schools Ella C Sabin and School Clerk Allen Three lady taxpayers were present, who voted with alacrity upon the motions

Mr H S Allen school clerk read the call for the meeting, and the proceedings of the last annual meeting were read and approved

Chairman D P Thompson then read the report and estimates of the directors, which was as follows

DIRECTORS' REPORT

To the taxpayers of this school district Ladies and Gentlemen The school year of 1889-90 closes this day and the board hopes that it has been satisfactory to the people of the district The buildings are in good repair and the coming year we hope will not be an expensive one in repairing our present buildings

The property of the district comprises five and one half blocks of ground on which are six large school buildings and are with their contents valued at about $375 000

The lot in Watson's addition belonging to the district should be sold as the one lot is not of sufficient size on which to build a building to accommodate the rapidly increasing wants of that portion of the district This lot is worth about $700 and has been used free of rent by the free kindergarten association

[illegible] addition to the Falling school building of four [illegible] sized rooms capable of accommodating 400 pupils at a cost of $12 400. [illegible] are occupied. The cost of [illegible] much less than it [illegible] for telephone, [illegible] than it was before [illegible]

The board [illegible] the same rule which has been [illegible] to divide the insurance as nearly as possible equally among the home and foreign insurance companies and has placed a sufficient policy on the annex to the Falling school building

The board still rents a building at $[illegible] per month on Portland Heights but the rapid growth of that portion of the city demands the building of a four room house two of the rooms which will accommodate say eighty pupils to be completed by the beginning of the fall term and we submit an estimate of the cost of the grounds, building and furniture

In the school buildings now occupied there are eighty eight teachers employed one city superintendent and seven janitors

Teachers salaries janitors salaries fuel light and all other expenses $41[illegible]

As the city grows these expenses must increase and it requires the most watchful attention on the part of the board to keep these expenditures on a par with the increased value of property and the increase of taxes on the same

The library has been increased the past year by the purchase of such books as was within the power of the board to obtain with the appropriation set apart for that purpose and we recommend that the sum of $500 be appropriated for books and apparatus including globes

A CHANGE OF NAME

Owing to the fact that the so-called North school has ceased to be the north school in fact since the erection of the Couch building which is now the most northerly building and consequently caused confusion the board changed the name of that school building to that of the Atkinson school In honor of the late George Atkinson long a resident and a most zealous friend of the public schools of this city

The rapid increase of the school population will make it necessary to provide at least six more school rooms the coming year, two of these in a four room building on Portland Heights and four rooms in North Portland (there is one spare room in the High school building and one in the Falling building) and we submit an estimate of the cost of these buildings

THE NIGHT SCHOOL.

In November last the board concluded to try the experiment of maintaining a night school at the High school building and employed one teacher at a salary of $60 per month Soon another teacher was necessary and finally a third was found necessary and the experiment was very successful The three rooms were filled with a most earnest and industrious class of pupils

The night school has been maintained for four months and we believe no better use can be made of the public money than by maintaining a night school for say five months of each year and we submit an estimate for maintaining the same

It has been the aim of the board to maintain the efficiency of the schools to the highest point, and to give to all the pupils of the district the best opportunities we can to obtain an education and also to make the expense of the same as little onerous to the taxpayers as is consistent with maintaining the high standing of our school We therefore submit for your consideration the following estimate of expenditures and income for the year 1890 and 1891

OTHER FACTS

The bonded indebtedness of the district is now $70 000 One bond of $10,000 will be due July 1st of this year and one of the remaining six bonds will be due each year Since the completion of the High school building the board has been compelled to make temporary loans of money to carry on the schools each year, at rates of interest of from 7 to 8 per cent, but we have now on hand from this year's taxes sufficient funds to maintain the schools until the county money is paid next May and that together with the amount that will be due from the state will carry the district through without being compelled to make temporary loans, until the year's taxes from the district are paid From the most careful estimates we believe a 3¾ mill tax should be levied. The estimate made by the board for ground on Portland Heights is only for sufficient ground for a four room building Should it be thought advisable to purchase a whole block on which a larger building should be eventually erected it will be necessary for you to levy a 4¼ mill tax to cover the expense of the ground which will be from $5000 to $10 000 more than our foregoing estimates Respectfully submitted

THE AUDITING COMMITTEE.

The report of the auditing committee H C Stratton and William C Church jr, was read stating that the clerk's accounts had been experted and found correct throughout

On motion of Fred V Holman the report of the clerk the school board and the auditing committee were placed on file

Henry Failing moved that the board's recommendation of a 3¾ mill tax be adopted.

H B Nicholas moved a substitute fixing the levy at 4¼ mills.

J W Whalley made an address in opposition to the substitute He dwelt upon his own devotion to the common school system but strongly condemned the proposition for an increase of taxes, making the point that the legislature should first be given an opportunity to repeal the indebtedness deduction law He thought that a proper listing of property would increase the tax roll from $40 000 000 to $120 000 000.

W K Smith said that he had watched Oregon's history for twenty five years and if we have to wait for the legislature of Oregon to make people honest we will be out and injured

W M Ladd briefly explained in response to a request from the audience for an understanding of the levy and what it would do that the board desired to appeal to the taxpayers for instructions as to whether they wished to purchase for the present or for futurity upon Portland Heights After some more rambling discussion Mr Nicholas' motion went to vote and upon a division resulted in the count of 38 aye and 16 no

H C Stratton G E Withington and Wm Church jr were appointed a committee to audit the school clerk's books and $50 was ordered paid to them for that service

On motion of Mr James Dunlap the Watson building was voted for the use for one year of the Kindergarten free of rent Adjourned

THE LOWER SOUND

Battle Ground of the Transcontinental Giants—Proposed Ship Canal an Important Factor

Since by common consent the freight war of the great transcontinental railroads is to be waged on the Lower Sound every agency or avenue of ingress or egress shortening time required in transit of particularly through and heavy freights attracts much attention The most interesting feature of recent appearance in this connection, is the proposed San de Fuca ship canal and union terminal railway system It is understood that in the syndicate to undertake construction of this system are friends of representatives of all the important railways and that each will have access to and over the shipping facilities to be afforded at uniform rates As a result the great aim of the competing roads will be to reach the Lower Sound at the east entrance of the San de Fuca canal by shortest route In anticipation of vigorous construction work in the vicinity of San de Fuca a great deal of money is quietly being invested in Whidby island values
